He will go to his former home at Hamilton Tuesday. After spending a week or more here attending to his personal affairs, he will join his family in western New York. This is the first visit of Mr. Rathbone to his home since the recent trials in Havana and he was received by many friends whose calls presented the appearance of a reception. To all inquiries of newspaper men Mr. Rathbone replied that he had nothing further to say regarding Cuban affairs; that he had sent his petition to congress for a full investigation, and pending action on that petition he would not discuss any phase of the Cuban situation.

State Mine Inspectors Declare the Mine Safe—Funeral of Mike Sabot, a Hero of the Disaster.

By Associated Press.

Johnstown, Pa., July 13.—After a consultation this evening with the state mine inspectors summoned here to make a thorough inspection of the rolling mill mine of the Cambria Steel company today, James Roderick, chief of the state bureau of mining inspection, dictated a notice to General manager C. S. Price of the Cambria company, granting formal permission to resume operations in all sections of the mine except the Klondike in the morning. The Klondike workings will likely be closed for several days until perfect security is assured through the bratticing of openings and repairs necessitated by the explosion. Two more deaths of rescued victims have occurred since last night. Early this morning John Sohr and Yasante Shoila died at the Cambria general hospital. These men were among the six living last brought out of the mine Friday afternoon of which four others have died. These deaths raise the total fatalities to 114, although the company's records have it one less. Much confusion has attended the compilation of the record.

Mine Superintendent G. T. Robinson this evening said:

"I would not like to assert that there are no more bodies in the mine, but I don't think there are. There may be a few."

It is generally regarded as certain that the full extent of the disaster is now known. State inspectors say tonight that the workings are now free of gas and the almost perfect ventilating apparatus is rushing currents of pure air into the uttermost recesses of the subterranean workings. There has not been a single place outside of the old abandoned chambers that have not undergone the scrutiny of experts to pronounce everything in as good condition as could be asked or demanded.

At 9:30 a. m., State Mine Inspectors Josiah T. Evans of Johnstown, Joseph Williams of Altoona, C. E. Ross of Greensburg and I. G. Roby of Uniontown, with Chief Roderick and the mine officers at the mine office and entered the mine. They went all through the Klondike, making air tests and noting the conditions controlling ventilation. They found many openings which retarded the proper course of air currents and noted them. The inspection lasted for hours. After finishing the Klondike section, the experts went through all the other sections which have never manifested dangerous symptoms. There they found matters in ordinary shape and at 4:30 p. m. the men left the mine to report at the hotel to Chief Roderick.

This talk went over all the men know of the mine before and since the explosion, the effects of the explosion and all pertaining to the prospects of future immunity from a similar catastrophe. The men paid particular note to the ferreting out, if possible, the cause of the explosion and the fact whether the blame rests on anyone now living, upon whom heavy punishment would alight.

Of course the inspectors would say nothing as to their discoveries. They will remain mute to the public on the subject until called upon to testify at the inquest, the date of which Coroner Miller will not fix until tomorrow night.

"I decline to say what my conclusions are since I have talked with the ones who were in today," said Mr. Roderick. "But I will say I consider the rolling mill mine a well-conducted institution."

More interest centered today on the funerals of the victims, scattered throughout the city. Black clouds of mourning were heaviest over Cambria city, where the foreign population dwells. Scenes of Saturday in this section were repeated but with sterner force. It was a grim fete day in which the number of participants was augmented by throngs the morning trains brought in. The outsiders came from towns within a radius of about 50 miles. These visitors spread themselves out in squads and took in the various points of interest associated with the tragedy. To the foot of the tramway leading up to the main mouth all paid a visit. Hundreds gathered there at times in the vain hopes of seeing newly discovered bodies brought forth.

All the churches of Johnstown paid more or less attention in their morning service to the disaster. Collections were taken in many for the benefit of the bereft families of the poorer victims. Special masses were said in the Catholic churches.

The afternoon was devoted to funerals. Incessantly, processions moved out along Chestnut street toward the Catholic cemetery near Morrellville.

The funeral of Mike Sabot, one of the conspicuous self-sacrificing heroes of the disaster, took place from St. Mary's German Catholic church. The large church was packed with friends and those who did not know the little dead fellow but who had heard the noble story of his achievement which brought him glory, but only at the expense of his life. Sabot was about 27 years old. He was a trap boy and knew the mine like a book. He was out at the mouth of one of the headings when the explosion came. He found himself unscathed and immediately rushed to the rescue of the fallen men beyond him. He dragged three into a working that the after damp had not reached and to his help they owe their lives today. Back he plunged into the mine heading after more bodies. Faintness overcame him and he toppled over and died. When found his hands were still clutching the clothing of one man in a manner which showed conclusively the boy was in the act of dragging him out to safety when overcome.

Mike's coffin was draped in pink and a profusion of flowers were strewn on top. As the cortege moved away from the church there was not a dry eye in the crowd which stood about with bared heads.

Down on Fourth street, where St. Stephen's Catholic church stands, the street was blocked for squares by thousands of spectators, carriages and mourners. The funeral commenced at 2 o'clock. The church was filled with affecting expressions of grief. Five coffins at one time were distributed in front of the altar. At 3 o'clock they commenced to leave for the cemetery. As the throngs commenced to evacuate the church the bell broke forth into wild ringing.

Around the corner at St. Mary's Greek Catholic church there were being held services for the dead simultaneously with those at St. Stephen's. Further down the street the Croatians were having their funerals. In all the foreign churches the congregations displayed emblems of their sorrows. Variegated colors were worn by the women, robbing the scene somewhat of its mournful character. All night Saturday, workmen were digging graves in the Morellville cemetery. By this morning they had enough completed to care for the day's arrivals and for those who were taken to the cemetery entrance on Saturday and had to be stored in a barn until excavations could be made for them.

The burial was simplified by the digging of long trenches in place of separate graves. In one of these 25 coffins were lowered.

The interment of Labor Boss John R. Thomas, Sr., took place in the afternoon. Interment was made at Grandview cemetery Westmont. All the graves in this cemetery were lined with white and all were decorated with a wealth of flowers.

Joseph A. Roderick, chief of the state bureau of mines, said tonight, some time after hearing the report of his four district inspectors who made an official examination of the mine today:

"We know where the explosion in the rolling mill mine occurred. We know what caused it. We know who caused it. If he were alive, criminal action might reach him. He is dead undoubtedly. There is nothing sensational about the case. I will only say that the explosion was not caused by a blast.

"There is nothing to conceal and everything known to me will be made public at the coroner's inquest, which will not be held for several days or at least until Mine Bosses John Rotallck, Harry Rodgers and Thomas Foster are able to testify."

PLUNGER PHILLIPS NOW OPERATING IN NEW YORK.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT ... NOT BRIGHT

By Associated Press.

Chicago, July 13.—Final overtures for the settlement of the strike of freight handlers and teamsters were made at meetings of the two unions tonight. At the instigation of the members of the Chicago board of arbitration the freight handlers agreed to send committees to all the railroads tomorrow morning. This agreement was made after the board had announced to the union men that eight of the largest roads entering Chicago had agreed to pay 1½ cents an hour to truckers, to pay for overtime and to do away with the demand for a probationary period of service.

The general managers of two of the railroads declared they had agreed to no such proposition. They declared that when the committees shall visit the railroads' officers tomorrow the roads will offer them the same terms as those which were rejected by the union men yesterday. The statement from the general managers destroyed the hope of a settlement of the strike tomorrow on the basis of the terms suggested by the general managers of the railroads. Even if the general managers had not insisted upon maintaining their position it is not probable that a settlement could be effected. The freight handlers agreed to make another effort to reach another settlement with the railroads only to please the teamsters who previously had indorsed the arrangement of the board of arbitration to settle the strike.

There is lack of evidence of their attempt to make a serious effort to settle the controversy. President Curran of the Freight Handlers union, stated tonight that the committees tomorrow morning will insist on the payment of 18 cents an hour instead of 17½, which the railroads are reported to have offered. He also stated that the freight handlers will make no more overtures and hereafter will reject all proposals which shall not stipulate for the payment of the wage scale as formulated by the union and the recognition of the organization. With the general managers and the unions both maintaining these respective positions, it is believed that there is slight chance for a settlement tomorrow, and that when the opportunity shall have vanished it will be a fight to a finish.

Every teamsters union in Chicago that has members handling freight, voted today to refuse to take teams to the freight depots. Longshoremen of Chicago, who have been only in a partially organized condition, were formed into a union today. They are out now in sympathy with the freight handlers, but tomorrow may begin an independent strike of their own if a higher scale of wages for loading and unloading the big lake boats shall be refused.

The ice teamsters also have agreed not to ice refrigerator cars not to visit the railroad yards. This is virtually a sympathetic strike and until the railroads shall settle the trouble with the freight handlers ice storage along the railroad lines will have to close. The teamsters at a meeting today determined that no member of the union shall go near the railroad freight sheds during the strike. While there is little likelihood of the coal teamsters being asked to haul from the freight houses they decided to be prepared for such a contingency by resolving not to touch any articles unloaded from freight cars by non-union laborers.

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL OF ITALY IS IN RUSSIA

By Associated Press.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—Emperor Nicholas II., wearing the chain of the Order of the Annunziata, the czarowitch, the Russian grand dukes, Count Lamsdorff, the minister of foreign affairs; the other cabinet ministers and a number of officers greeted King Victor Emmanuel of Italy upon his arrival at the railway station here at half past four this afternoon. Preceded by a band playing the Italian national anthem, a guard of honor escorted their majesties to the palace, where the czarina and dowager empress welcomed King Victor. A banquet in honor of the royal guest was given in the hall of Peter the Great in the palace, at which the cabinet ministers, the members of the Italian embassy and high court dignitaries were present. Count Lamsdorff, at the czar's command, handed to Signor Prinetti, Italian minister of affairs, who accompanied the king on his arrival, the insignia of the Order of St. Alexander Newski.

The official papers extend to King Victor Emmanuel a sympathetic greeting, declaring that the interests of Russia and Italy are antagonistic in no quarter whatever.

At the banquet the czar, in toasting the king, said:

"It is with lively and deep satisfaction that we greet your majesty and it is especially agreeable to us that your majesty has begun his travels by visiting us. The whole of Russia sees therein a fresh proof of the bonds of true friendship which unite us and identifies itself with our sentiments. Those feelings of mutual sympathy, which are increasingly apparent between our two peoples, favor the development of the most desirable relations and interests of the two countries. I thank your majesty sincerely for your visit and I raise my glass to the glory and happiness of your august person, of Queen Helene, of Queen dowager and of the whole royal family. I drink prosperity to Italy."

The band then played the Italian anthem. King Victor Emmanuel in reply said:

"I thank your majesty for your hearty welcome and for the gracious words with which you have referred to me, to my country and to the ties of personal friendship which heartily unite us. The good relations which have long existed between Russia and Italy make my visit specially agreeable to me. I come to St. Petersburg with the approval of my people, who perceive in the closer drawing together of these bonds a fresh pledge of peace and prosperity. I raise my glass in honor of your imperial majesty, to the glory of the government and the prosperity of Russia, to the Empress Maria and to the Empress Alexandra, as well as to the whole imperial family."

The Russian anthem was then rendered by the band.

RESIGNATION OF LORD SALISBURY

S... Premiership of Great Britain and Is Succeeded by A. J. Balfour—Changes Are Expected.

By Associated Press.

London, July 13.—The Marquis of Salisbury has resigned the premiership of Great Britain and Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury and government leader in the house of commons has been appointed to succeed him.

The Marquis of Salisbury tendered his resignation at an audience which he had with King Edward last Friday.

Yesterday Mr. Balfour visited the king and accepted the premiership.

By Associated Press.

London, July 13.—The fact of the resignation of the premiership of Great Britain by Lord Salisbury, as foreshadowed in the dispatches of the Associated Press, was officially given out this evening. The prime minister laid down the responsibility of his office July 11. Within 24 hours his majesty elevated A. J. Balfour, the government's chief representative in the house of commons, to the position of premier.

While it was expected in official and political circles that Lord Salisbury's retirement would be coincident with the coronation of King Edward, it was scarcely looked for prior to that event. Consequently, about the only surprise expressed as the news spread through London concerned the date, rather than the fact of the resignation. The real interest was not so much in reference to Lord Salisbury's withdrawal as it was in the appointment of his successor. The liveliest speculation is rife as to the personnel of the new cabinet. The most discussed feature of the pending changes is the position of Mr. Chamberlain will be satisfactory to both. Mr. many quarters has been regarded as the most promising candidate for the premiership.

A representative of the Associated Press learns that before his appointment to his new office Mr. Balfour first had an interview with Mr. Chamberlain and then consulted with his other cabinet assistants. This is regarded as assurance that the future relative positions of Messrs. Balfour and Chamberlain is satisfactory to both. Mr. Chamberlain's friends say he always recognized the reversion of the premiership to be Mr. Balfour's right as government leader in the house of commons.

As to Lord Salisbury's withdrawal, the main reason is considered by practically all the best informed persons to have been simply a desire for a quiet life on the part of a man advanced in years whose activities have been unusual and whose scientific tastes predispose him to study and seclusion. That the retiring premier's health has failed to some extent is undeniable, but this is not more than perhaps is to be expected in a man of his years, and the close of the war in South Africa and the returning of the commanding general is considered to be appropriate to his withdrawal.

His retirement was practically arranged at an audience of Lord Salisbury with the king a month ago, to be coincident with his majesty's coronation, but the king's illness interfered with these plans and compelled Lord Salisbury to wait till his majesty was sufficiently recovered to attend to state business. Though alert mentally, the retiring premier's physical condition, especially since the death of his wife, has not been satisfactory. The ... seemed to affect him greatly and since that time he has done little entertaining beyond purely official dinners and receptions. In a social aspect, however, Mr. Balfour's accession is not expected to make much difference, neither Mr. Balfour nor his sister, who acts as his hostess, being very fond of society.

Although Lord Salisbury's resignation does not necessarily involve the reconstruction of the cabinet, it is believed there will be some changes. It is not considered unlikely that some of the new ministers will be made ... in order to make room for new blood in the cabinet. It has been the idea that Mr. Balfour would be elevated to the peerage, leaving Mr. Chamberlain to lead the house of commons, the notion being that this arrangement would be the best to conciliate the divergent interests of the cabinet, but it is understood that, at any rate for the present, Mr. Balfour will continue to lead the commons.

The Associated Press learns that Lord Salisbury, in resigning, expressed the desire that no new title or honors should be conferred upon him.

The retirement of this last great statesman of the Victorian age is universally regarded as the transition from one generation to another and as marking the close of an era in the national life.

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 13.—The appointment of Mr. Balfour to the English premiership will not result in any change in the existing relations between Great Britain and the United States. This is the opinion of state department officials, who express the opinion that Mr. Balfour will be as much disposed as was his predecessor, Lord Salisbury, to continue the friendly relations between the two countries.

FEELING IN ITALY.

By Associated Press.

Rome, July 13.—Lord Salisbury's resignation of the British premiership has produced here a feeling of regret, tempered with the hope that the relations between Great Britain and Italy, which grew cooler under the retiring premier, will, under Mr. Balfour, resume their ancient cordiality.

LONDON OPINION OF THE CHANGE IN PREMIERSHIP

By Associated Press.

London, July 14.—The changes in the British premiership have been officially announced in the court circular, and the announcement has been issued from Downing street and will be ratified at a meeting of the whole Conservative party, peers and commoners, convened for today. Mr. Chamberlain's wound is healing well, but the doctors still enjoin absolute rest, hence he will be unable to attend this meeting.

At the political clubs last night various opinions were expressed regarding Lord Salisbury's retirement and Mr. Balfour's accession. The Liberals and Nationalists generally expressed relief to find that Mr. Balfour, not Mr. Chamberlain, was to be the new premier, but a small section of both Conservatives and Liberals were in no way reconciled to the idea of the "perpetuation of the Hotel Cecil," as the change from Lord Salisbury to Mr. Balfour is called, and openly regretted that Mr. Chamberlain had not been appointed or a compromise found in the appointment of the Duke of Devonshire, lord president of the council. Among the bulk of the party, as also in the morning papers, satisfaction is expressed upon learning that Mr. Balfour is to be the new premier, and the consensus of opinion is that there is no longer anything in Great Britain's foreign relations to cause the slightest anxiety at Lord Salisbury's dropping the reins of power.

The Times, in an editorial article on the change, says:

"Our relations with all powers, great and small, are excellent and signs ... promise us the enjoyment of continued tranquillity abroad. Lord Salisbury has the proud gratification of feeling, as he recommends his kinsman as his successor, that in no fitting or more worthy hands could power be placed."

Reviewing Lord Salisbury's life work, the Times says:

"Another precious achievement has been the steady building up, in circumstances of no ... difficulty, of the excellent understanding that now exists between Great Britain and the United States. That has been the ... work of his last years in office. It is a fitting ... for a life of ... and honorable activity devoted to the highest interests of the empire."

The Standard, in an editorial, on the subject, says it ... Lord Salisbury will be ... no ... successor to a line of illustrious premiers, and that his ... will be ... abroad as ... as at home, for his prestige and unique ... have ... [illegible]

"Mr. Chamberlain ... [illegible] ... time, that he can prefer national interest to the gratification of personal aims."

All the morning papers are filled with sketches of the careers of the statesmen concerned and with speculations as to the future, the Liberal organs expressing doubt as to whether Mr. Chamberlain is likely to remain content to act under Mr. Balfour.

The Times states that Lord Salisbury's resignation was not caused by any political differences with his colleagues in the cabinet, and says:

"We understand that the king was very anxious to mark in some special manner his high sense of the great service Lord Salisbury has rendered to the state and expressed a desire to confer upon the retiring minister some conspicuous promotion or distinction, but Lord Salisbury begged to be allowed to decline the proposed honor. There is reason to believe that the king sought Lord Salisbury's advice as to his successor and that the retiring prime minister suggested Mr. Balfour. A message was thereupon sent to the palace to Mr. Balfour at the house of commons. Feeling that it was his duty to respond to the king's ... wish ... without having ... the concurrence and support of Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Balfour ... to the colonial secretary's house ... saw him in his sick room. We are in a position to state that he was met in the most cordial manner, and that Mr. Chamberlain recognized that Mr. Balfour was the natural successor to the leadership and ... of his entire support.

"The change in the premiership will certainly involve ultimately other internal changes, but as the king is leaving town, it is ... that ... will be announced for ... no office vacant except ... of the privy seal, ... can carry on work as ... and as Mr. Balfour ... office as will not have to ... self to his constituents ... It ... be taken for ... the Duke of Devonshire will lead in the house of lords."

KANSAS RIVER DAMAGES THE SANTA FE TRACKS

By Associated Press.

Lawrence, Kan., July 13.—Ninety feet of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad track at Lakeview was washed away today by water rushing into the old river bed from the Kansas River. The previous break in the track across the eastern arm of the lake just formed, had not been remedied and a work train was caught between the two breaks without coal and water.

The water continued to rise at the lake all day and flowed over the Santa Fe tracks at the east side, washing away some of the track. The country east of the lake is badly flooded and many families are moving away. The river here is three inches higher than it was yesterday. It broke through its north bank a mile north of here today and is now giving the Union Pacific railroad cause for alarm.

SOFT COAL MINERS MAY NOT STRIKE

By Associated Press.

Altoona, Pa., July 13.—Reports from all the sub-districts of District No. 2, United Mine Workers, shows that delegates elected to the convention at Indianapolis from this field are uninstructed as regards voting for a general sympathetic strike. All of the eight men chosen are conservative miners selected especially to avoid, if possible, bringing the central bituminous field into a sympathetic strike. The delegates will urge the convention to donate a day's pay weekly to the anthracite men, permitting the bituminous miners to continue at work. The soft coal miners in this field are now earning good wages by reason of the full supply of cars available and the enormous demand for coal.

BOSTON TELEGRAPHERS ARE NOT DISSATISFIED

By Associated Press.

New York, July 13.—Regarding the published report that dissatisfaction was growing among the telegraph operators in the Boston office of the Western Union Telegraph company which would probably lead to the organization of the operators as a part of the American Federation of Labor, B. Brooks, general eastern superintendent of the Western Union company, said today that so far as he knew the story was without foundation. Operators in the Boston office of the Western Union company, Mr. Brooks said, work the same hours and receive the same pay as operators in every other city office. There have been no discharges of operators, salaries have not been reduced and the hours of duty have not been increased. Conditions in Boston, the general superintendent added, are in all respects the same as they have been for the last 18 years and there was absolutely no cause for dissatisfaction on the part of the operators.

and scored on a fly to center by Waldron. In the next two innings the interest was absorbed by the operation of the pitchers. McNeeley never pitched better than in those two innings, while his fielding throughout the game was excellent.

At this point Granville showed up well by capturing a liner passing third and catching a runner on the line thus pulling the local team out of a bad hole. In the sixth the locals went after the ball with a vengeance and scored the only runs they made during the game. Fleming lit on the horsehide pill and sent it skimming just inside of first base down to right field fence and tied the score by a clean, earned home run. This inspired the others and here Nichols weakened. The ball was driven about freely and with the assistance of the presentation of two men to first Granville was able to score another run by a long fly to left executed by Drennan. The side was retired with three men left on bases.

In the seventh Shannon hit for two bases and managed to score a tieing run. Through the good, swift fielding of Tolly the visitors were prevented from further scoring. In the eighth and ninth the Missouri aggregation clinched the game by two runs each time at bat. One in the last inning was made by a home run by Waldron. Little protest was made against Umpire Cole, but his decisions showed improvement over the previous game and if anything, they favored the visitors. The score in detail follows:

lowed one man to score he was succeeded by Chinn, who pitched as magnificent a game as did Whitridge, with the exception of the fifth inning. During that inning he lost control and threw one three-bagger, three safe hits and two bases on balls, allowing the Indians four runs, which clinched the game. Two of the runs were the results of errors by Hall. Aside from this one inning, it was a pitchers' battle, with honors even.

Garvin, the visiting catcher, was the hero of the day. He made two sensational catches of fouls which won him the applause of the crowd every time he appeared. In the eighth inning, when his team was at bat, he rushed up and down the foul line calling and motioning to the bleachers to root for his men. His popularity caused the crowd to root with vigor, but Whitridge was solid and could not be rattled.

The Denver fans acted very differently today from what they did during the last series. Then the visiting teams were treated to a round of abuse, pop bottles and cushions, which caused many an unpleasant encounter. The fact that the Denver boys received the same treatment from the other fans in the towns which they visited on their last trip, and which was partly responsible for a loss of 14 out of 15 games, has brought the matter home in earnest, and has caused what it is hoped will be a complete cessation of rowdyism. The score:

Republicans, who had elected Harrison and a congress in political harmony with him in 1888, supposed they were intrenched in power for at least a dozen years, as the leanings of all the new states appeared to be strongly toward the Republicans at the time of admission. The Democrats, however, swept the country in the congressional election of 1890 and in the presidential and congressional campaigns of 1892. The Republicans may be said to have lost North Dakota in 1892, when it gave one of its electoral votes to Weaver, the greenbacker, one to Cleveland, the other going to Harrison. The Republicans lost Washington, Wyoming and South Dakota in 1896, they lost Montana in 1896 and 1900, and they lost Idaho in 1892, 1896 and 1900.

Utah fooled both parties in turn, on its entrance in the early part of 1896. It elected a Republican governor in the campaign at the time of its admission, and gave its electoral vote to Bryan in the presidential canvass just afterward, although each party felt confident that it could control Utah for many years without a break. In the case of Utah the Republicans were more successful than the Democrats, for the Republicans have carried it in all the state elections since its admission, and in one of the two presidential canvasses.

The delegate from New Mexico is telling the Republicans in congress that Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona, when they enter statehood, are sure to roll vote the Republican ticket. The old parliamentary hands on both the Republican and the Democratic sides, however, know that such prophecies, even when honestly made, are worth nothing.

Would it not be strange if the votes of new states, created by a Republican administration, should turn that administration out of power in a close presidential election in 1904?—(Leslie's Weekly.

GARDNER & CO'S. MARKET LETTER

Colorado Springs, July 14.

The market for the week duplicated pretty generally the features that have distinguished the mining stock business for many months. Really good news from the mines, with the exception of Elkton, was followed by scanty public interest, dullness and a general shrinkage in values.

We heard a broker remark the other day that the word "sell" should be omitted from the vocabulary of the mining stock business, because it had a depressing influence on the value of shares. While one might be justified to whisper "sell" occasionally by long distance phone, it was the height of folly to print such fallacious ideas in the newspapers.

The weak point in this argument is its lack of veracity. The man who buys tips on the races from touts, is first cousin to the chap who really believes brokers know what stocks are going to do—before they do it. Brokers can guess and guess sometimes very shrewdly, but they don't know. If it was one of the peculiarities and perquisites of brokers to actually know beforehand the future movements of stocks, profits would be a certainty and losses impossible, seats on the exchange would be worth nearer $500,000 than $500, and the crumbs of wisdom occasionally scattered by millionaire brokers would be anxiously sought after. As it is, its the uncertainties in mining that makes the market and the hope of a big winning that keeps the prospect list alive. All this careful selection and judicious investment talk that one reads about is absolute rot when applied to mining stock investments. What looks like gold is not always brass, nor is the boot always on the other leg. In buying prospect stocks you have a chance for success, and when that is said—there you are. If the man working at the breast of the drift cannot even tell you how extensive the recently discovered ore shoot will prove to be, how can the tenderfoot eastern investor obtain his "judicious investment" information. A fully developed mine, with ore in sight, can be examined, but in such cases prices are high enough to discount the cream of chances for real profit. The low prices of prospect shares admit of big profits if the prospect proves a mine. The vintage of 1902 shows that prospect stocks can come out of both ends of the horn, but at present the small end is plead by a large majority.

We shall say "sell" as often as "buy," for the man who wrote market letters and always said "buy" writes them no more and his space in the papers is filled with plate matter.

The best that can be done is to offer suggestions along the high priced list and give names of cheaper shares that are well located and working. The high priced active list are Elkton, El Paso, Golden Cycle, Isabella, Portland and Vindicator. A great deal has been written about them, but after all it's the price that makes investors thoughtful or gay. Elkton is heavily capitalized and its shares are widely scattered. The property is working under heavy expenses on account of water, and dividends seem far away in the distant future.

The recent smash in Doctor-Jack has made buyers timid, and when Elkton stock began to come out in quantity prices declined rapidly. With all these heavy expenses Elkton must be getting shy in the bank account, at any rate there was no apparent inside support to the stock. Everyone seems bearish on Elkton now and 25 cents is freely predicted. The unexpected often happens. Perhaps there are too many bears and too much stock sold short. It would not be surprising anytime to see a sharp upturn. A scared bear is the best buyer in the world, and don't forget that Elkton shares are still worth something.

El Paso is also heavily capitalized, but considerable of the stock is owned by insiders, who, apparently are giving the stock active support by buying around 51. Otherwise the price would slide in sympathy. The company at present is developing the property and enlarging its operating plant. Should El Paso break to around 46 cents or less, the share ought to prove a profitable venture.

Golden Cycle has declared a monthly dividend of $7.50 a thousand shares. If paid regularly this is $90 per annum on a thousand shares costing $600, or 15 per cent. The property is handled economically and has a good showing, mostly of low grade ore. A gentleman who went down to the 12th level of the Isabella a few days ago reports a small force at work, with the property probably just about making expenses. No attempt is being made to pump the water and explore the lower levels for the late lamented bonanza ore shoot. A small scalping market with 20-cent Isabella not far away is all the nearby future seems to offer.

Portland passed the July dividend and will probably pass the October one as well. Some weeks ago we stated that the ore in the Portland, while in larger quantity was lower grade with depth, and to escape rapacious treatment charges the management had decided to treat their own ore in their own mill. It's the old time mining man's ambition to own mine and mill, with the satisfaction of knowing he is getting all the gold the ore contains at actual cost. The mill is now finished and is well built and planned. We figure that Portland can mine its own ore, freight it down to their mill and turn it into bullion for about $12 a ton, with the probability that this cost can be lessened after a while.

The mill is now running on low grade ore, as it takes time to tune up new machinery to do perfect work. There is every reason to believe the mill will prove a success and that other Cripple Creek producers will follow Portland's example.

The immediate future points to a small decline in Portland shares, but inside a year we expect to see values $1 a share higher than today's prices.

Vindicator declares a quarterly five cent dividend. This means a return of $200 a year on a thousand shares, which around present prices pays over 20 per cent per annum, provided the present dividend rate is continued. Buyers appear a trifle shy of this stock because of the seeming neglect of insiders to push along what looks like a good thing.

Anaconda is pretty quiet these days, with few friends. This company is now capitalized at 2,000,000 shares, of which 400,000 are in the treasury, as against a capitalization of 5,000,000 shares a few years ago, with no change in acreage. The property is being successfully worked by lessees. Around 12 cents this share looks reasonable for a holt. Anaconda occasionally becomes a very active trader.

Good old Doctor-Jack, owing to hard times, has reduced prices from $1 a share to 10 cents, and still buyers are scarce. Work has ceased on company account and lessees are in charge. Two sets of lessees at least have a fair showing. Doctor-Jack at 10 cents a share has a chance to see better days. We also note that insiders are bidding almost every day for plain Jack Pot. Some people always did prefer whisky straight to fancy drinks.

Of the cheaper list Findley, Acacia, C. C. Cons., Gold Dollar Cons., Work and C. K. & N. look reasonable, and are all active traders, while Pointer, Prince Albert, American Cons., C. C. & M. Gold Bond, Gold Sovereign, Morning Star, Rose Maud, Rose Nicol and Sunset-Eclipse seem about as cheap as they can get. Are you looking for a soft snap? Perhaps the very thing you're looking for and can't find may be like the old man's goggles—staring you straight in the face.

Women are mostly uneasy... It is scarcely believable that a woman, suffering past all telling, can attend to business, and bend and stoop with a back whose ache is agony. And beyond all this she smiles as she bends and stoops above her customer. A man might swallow down an oath or keep back a groan, but his face would be like a thundercloud, and his voice scarcely disguise his irritation.

For women who suffer from backache, bearing-down pains, or other pains due to womanly diseases, there is no other medicine equal to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the womanly functions, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. A vegetable preparation, it cannot disagree with the weakest condition.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicines have done me," writes Mrs. Mae Brown, of Canton, Fulton Co., Ills. "I was troubled with female weakness and doctored with several different doctors. They did not help me; indeed, I got worse all the time. I had ulceration and displacement of the uterus. What I suffered no tongue can tell. I had heavy, bearing-down pains, and thought my back would kill me. I also had a very bad discharge, but after taking five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I am feeling as well as ever. It has been almost two years and I have had no return of the trouble. My friends tell me I don't look as though I ever was sick."

BERLIN BOERSE REMAINS STAGNANT

By Associated Press.

Berlin, July 13.—The Boerse maintains the same physiognomy of stagnation. Last week all departments were weak except domestic government securities, which were firmer upon the growing ease of buying for English account. All industrials were lifeless at lower quotations, the weakest being electrical shares, which declined upon the publication of the annual report of the Lahmeyer company of Frankfort, which showed a loss of 2,550,000 marks and the passing of the dividend, as against a dividend of 16 per cent. in 1901 and of 11 per cent. in 1900. Shares of the North German line and the Hamburg-American Steam Packet company, although continually sold for Hamburg and Bremen account, recovered slightly. Coal ... were lower, notwithstanding the announcement of large American purchases and satisfactory trade conditions in Silesia. The Rhine, however, reports a less satisfactory condition. Representatives of the Bar Iron mills met at Dusseldorf yesterday and agreed to raise prices five marks. Coal prices were lower upon the June report of the syndicate, which shows a reduction of output.

Domestic bank stocks were dull and fractionally lower.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

By Associated Press.

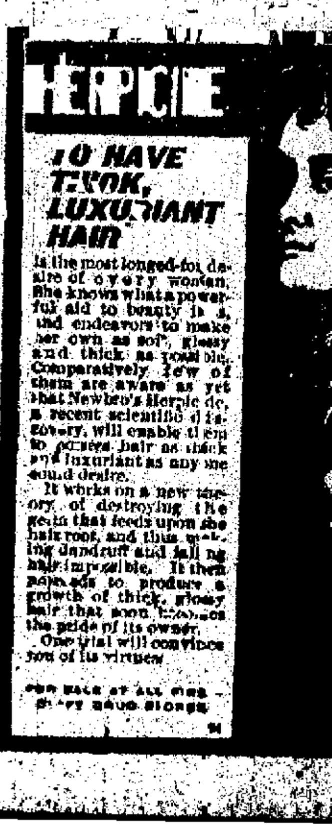

London, July 13.—The adjustment of the settlement, the existence of considerable speculation for a rise and an absence of general investors from the market affected the stock exchange adversely last week and caused declines in most directions. A feeling of apprehension pervaded the atmosphere and many operators do not disguise the fact that they were glad to see them weaken. The public was not disposed to relieve speculators of the loans and securities they were carrying and three minor failures resulted. The market was again obliged to borrow considerably from the bank in order to meet the demands for the stock exchange settlement and the consol loan installment but as there is no special demand this week things can be reimbursed.

Paris is again buying gold in London, but the desire to send money to France is not sufficiently pronounced for gold to be taken from the bank for that purpose, and no inflow of gold is expected, as Paris is absorbing all in the open market and the arrivals for American account are light.

Railway securities last week were steady, with an optimistic tendency. Industrials were quiet and South Africans were disappointingly weak.

In an article on Governor Van Sant, of Minnesota in the Saturday Evening Post, Forrest Crissey tells of the governor's first political speech, which was made early in his teens. With a group of young companions in Rock Island, his native town, he went to hear Stephen A. Douglas speak in his celebrated campaign for re-election to the United States senate. In the course of his speech, the Little Giant scornfully exclaimed: "Who is Abraham Lincoln? He would never have been heard of but for me. I made him!" This was more than the steamboat boy, the devotee of the rail splitter, could stand. He sprang to his feet and shouted: "Then, sir, you've made a president!"

HERPICIDE

TO HAVE THICK, LUXURIANT HAIR

is the most longed-for desire of every woman. She knows what a powerful aid to beauty it is, and endeavors to make her own as soft, glossy and thick as possible. Comparatively few of them are aware as yet that Newbro's Herpicide, a recent scientific discovery, will enable them to possess hair as thick and luxuriant as any one could desire.

It works on a new theory, of destroying the germ that feeds upon the hair root, and thus making dandruff and falling hair impossible. It then proceeds to produce a growth of thick, glossy hair that soon becomes the pride of its owner.

One trial will convince you of its virtues.

A MILLIONAIRE'S INVESTIGATIONS

How Mr. Rockefeller Went About His Recent Million-Dollar Benefaction to Harvard Medical School.

Boston, July 12, 1902.—This spring, Mr. John D. Rockefeller, following the example of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who had promised more than a million dollars the year before for the new buildings of the Harvard Medical school, offered the university another million on condition that friends of the school should raise about $750,000—a condition which was almost immediately complied with in New York and Boston. Mr. Rockefeller made his offer only after much study of the situation. The last number of the Harvard Graduates' Magazine contains extracts from the report of an expert, Mr. Starr T. Murphy, whom Mr. Rockefeller asked to investigate the school and the hospital facilities of Boston. This report, which outside of the pages of the Graduates' magazine has been rather unaccountably neglected, is such a striking illustration of the careful methods of modern philanthropy, at least when concerned with gifts running into seven figures, that it will probably interest many readers to whom the subject of Mr. Murphy's investigations might not otherwise appeal.

"Medical teaching," Mr. Murphy begins by saying, "must be carried on in large establishments. So long as the old method obtained, of teaching by lectures with only a very little laboratory work, it was possible to establish a medical school almost anywhere, and on an independent basis, as the medical schools of the earlier days were money-making concerns. This, however, was a bad thing for the country, as these schools were able to give degrees, and resulted in turning out a vast horde of wretchedly educated practitioners. The improved method will tend in a large measure to do away with this abuse, as the small schools can no longer furnish the instruction which modern methods require. The great medical schools of today must be connected with large universities. They are no longer self-supporting, as the increased cost of the training under the new methods largely exceeds any possible revenue from students. It is necessary, therefore, that they should be heavily endowed, and such endowment cannot be secured except for schools which are under the conservative control of the larger universities. A further reason for this university connection is that it is impossible to get men of first-class ability and reputation to connect themselves with schools which do not have the university association.

"In the second place, such a school must be in a large city in order to have access to the hospital material. In order to get this there is sometimes a wide geographical separation between the university and its medical school. The distance, however, between the Harvard university at Cambridge and its medical school in Boston is so small as to present no practical difficulty.

"Harvard university is particularly well situated for the maintenance of a great medical school by reason of its relations to the hospitals in Boston. The claim is made that the Harvard Medical school controls probably more clinical material than any other one school in the country. Practically all of the general and special surgical material in the city of Boston is controlled by surgeons who are members of the teaching staff of that school. The surgical wards of the Massachusetts General, Boston City, Carney Boston Lying-In, Children's and St. Elizabeth's hospitals, Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, and the Long Island hospital are open to the students of the Harvard Medical school. Besides these hospitals there is a number of small institutions, the patients in which can be used for clinical instruction. All of these hospitals are accessible to the Medical school, and in all of them it is possible not only to show patients in the public clinics, but to admit students in the wards for sectional and bedside teaching.

"The number of surgical patients thus available are approximately as follows: surgery: Surgical beds, 526; surgical cases treated, 7421; surgical operations, 4615; surgical out-patients, 20,917. Gynecology: Surgical beds, 128; surgical cases treated, 1447; surgical operations, 1700; surgical out-patients, 1917. Orthopedics: Number of patients, 110; surgical cases treated, 667; surgical operations, 300; surgical out-patients, 3920. Opthalmic and Aural: Number of patients, 210; surgical cases treated, 2528; surgical operations, 2824; surgical out-patients, 28,767. Obstetrical: Number of patients, 50; surgical cases treated, 647; surgical out-pa[illegible]

"There are [illegible] three large, completely equipped laboratories for general pathological research,—the Sears laboratory at the Medical school, the Pathological laboratory at the Boston City hospital, and the Pathological laboratory at the Massachusetts General hospital. At both of the hospital laboratories are large autopsy rooms. At the Boston City hospital an average of 300 autopsies yearly are performed, and 1200 surgical specimens are examined yearly. At the Massachusetts General hospital 250 autopsies are performed, and 1500 surgical specimens are examined. At the Long Island hospital there is an autopsy room, where 150 autopsies a year are performed. These autopsies provide a large amount of surgical pathological material which can be used for the study and elucidation of surgical problems. These laboratories also provide preliminary instruction for a large number of scientifically trained observers, who can be drafted for further advanced work on surgical problems.

"I was much impressed by the way in which the records of these laboratories are kept, and the way in which they are made available for students and those engaged in research. A carefully written record of each autopsy is kept, giving in detail the history of the case as far as possible and a written description of the results of the autopsy. A portion of each organ and tissue in the body is preserved in alcohol, and these are filed systematically and carefully indexed by means of a card catalogue index. Smaller portions of these specimens are "fixed" and mounted in paraffine, and these are also carefully filed and indexed. From these paraffine specimens microscopical sections are made, which are also filed and indexed. The microscopic sections are so filed that each small drawer contains a microscopic section of every organ and tissue in the body from which that material came. As these collections increase in size, their value can hardly be over-estimated. A student desiring to make himself familiar with the effects of a given disease can have not only the written account of the history of the disease and of the results of the autopsy, but he can have access to the microscopic sections, or if he desires fresh sections for further investigation, those can be got from the paraffine preparations, or if it is necessary to go still farther back, the actual tissues and organs preserved in alcohol are available. Not only is the material furnished by a single case thus available, but he can also compare the results from an indefinite number of cases of the same disease. The material for research in these institutions impressed me greatly.

"The further claim made in favor of Boston as a site for a great school of this kind is the general point of view prevailing there. It is claimed that in New York the idea is to establish a large practice as early as possible; while in Boston the desire for scientific work has been very marked in recent years, and has taken precedence of the desire to make money. As a result there is a large proportion of well-trained scientific observers, enthusiastic young men, who are desirous and able to pursue scientific investigations, and who have been trained as investigators and teachers, and not as practitioners. These investigators must be discovered. They cannot be made. I am inclined to think that this claim is well founded. Professor Minot stated that Harvard is the only medical school in the world professing to offer a special regularly graded course, leading to a degree, to train men to become investigators in medical science. It must not be supposed, however, that the Harvard Medical school is mainly devoted to the training of investigators, as distinguished from practitioners. About 98 per cent. of the graduates of the Harvard Medical school become practitioners, and only from one to two per cent. are capable of becoming original investigators. The best of these are taken on the teaching staff of Harvard, or are called to similar positions in other schools. In this way the best ideas of a school are spread over the country, and one teacher thus trained and called elsewhere, may in the need, do more good for the community by increasing the knowledge and the power to use it in the students under him, than a thousand poorly trained practitioners.

"As the result of my examinations, I am satisfied that Harvard is one of the best managed institutions in the country. President Eliot made the statement to me that they had never lost a fund. Their rule that they will not go into debt is an admirable one, and their refusal to proceed under Mr. Morgan's gift until full provision is made for adequate endowment, is an example of conservatism which could well be followed by other institutions in the country. The fact that they figure the endowment on the basis of an income of four per cent. is another illustration of their conservatism. They are actually earning somewhat more than that, the average for last year being about four and seven-tenths per cent. I am satisfied also that Harvard is an institution well qualified to manage a large medical school, and to do the best grade of work. The city of Boston is large enough to furnish all the hospital material which is needed, and the relation of the school to the hospitals is such as to enable the school to avail itself to the full of the material which is there. I would, therefore, recommend a substantial gift."

Florida's Remarkable Springs.

The springs of Florida, celebrated for their size and the clarity of their waters, are being studied by the hydrographers of the United States geological survey as a valuable adjunct to the state's water supply. The work is under the charge of hydrographer B. M. Hall, who is also making a study of the water supply of the neighboring states.

The springs, of which there are a number in Marion, Columbia, Polk and other counties are the source of practically all the rivers of Florida. Some of them flow off in bold streams others form lakes of considerable dimensions, large enough in some instances for steamboat navigation.

At favorable points on the streams leading from them measurements have been made by current meter to determine the velocity and volume of their flow. Some of these streams are of unusual size. The stream flowing from Silver Spring in Marion county measures 60 feet in width and 14 feet in depth and regularly discharges over 830 cubic feet of water per second. The outlet of Juliette or "Blue" spring in the same county, forming the head of the Withlacoochee river, is 100 feet wide, where measured and was found to be discharging 778 cubic feet per second; that of Ichatucknee spring, one of the many springs tributary to the Suwanee river—and of added interest from the fact that the bones of an immense mastodon were recently found imbedded in its bank—discharges 403 cubic feet per second. The Kissengen, another typical spring in southern Florida, constantly discharges 31 cubic feet per second, or about 14,000 gallons each minute. The waters in this spring gush from a circular orifice in its bottom with great force, raising the surface of the water considerably above the general level of its basin.

The Florida springs are remarkably transparent, the smallest objects being distinctly seen at depths of 30 feet or more, and although in some instances their waters are slightly impregnated with sulphur, iron, and other mineral constituents, they are usually excellent for drinking purposes.

Recent Government Maps of New York.

The United States geological survey has recently issued a number of new topographic map sheets of portions of New York state, the result of the co-operative survey of the state by the government bureau and the state engineer and surveyor. These are all first editions and are as follows: In central New York, the Palmyra quadrangle, which includes portions of Wayne and Ontario counties, in the region surrounding and north of Palmyra and Newark N. Y., and the Geneva quadrangle, showing the country in Seneca and part of Ontario counties bordering the foot of Seneca and Cayuga lakes and embracing the cities of Geneva, Waterloo and Seneca Falls. In the Adirondack region the Wilmurt quadrangle, consisting of adjoining portions of Herkimer and Hamilton counties in the mountainous and little settled section drained by the West Canada creek, and the Indian lake quadrangle, showing Indian lake and a number of other smaller bodies of water located near it; the bold relief and the altitude of the country are well represented. In southern New York, the eastern portion of Orange county, with the city of Newburg, is represented in the Schunemunk quadrangle, which takes its name from the Schunemunk mountain, a conspicuous topographic feature; this map shows most of the fertile dairy country east of the line of the Lehigh and Hudson River railroad. The Millbrook quadrangle represents the northern portion of Dutchess county, adjoining the Connecticut line; on it are represented all the towns and physical features of the Webatauck and Wappinger creeks and those of the intervening country from somewhat south of Millbrook to Pine Plains and Mt. Riga.

The maps are all drawn on a scale of about one inch to the mile and cover rectangular sections of country equal to 15 degrees of latitude and longitude. The survey has been made with great exactness, and the maps indicate not only all the highways, railroads, boundaries and drainage features, but even the location of houses in the farming districts; they also show admirably the topography or inequalities of relief, by use of contours.

Gold in Ancient River Beds in the Sierra Nevadas.

For a number of years geologists have been investigating the ancient river beds which occur so abundantly over the slopes of the Sierra Nevadas and are of much importance on account of the auriferous material contained in their gravels. These ancient channels mark the courses of former rivers, whose waters were directed in the lapse of time by alterations in the level of the land, or by other causes, dating back to tertiary times, a late period in geological history. During the time the streams were in existence some of the gold-bearing rock of the region was washed into them and carried along by their waters, and in the sand and gravels of their beds portions of the precious metal still remain. A few months since, W. Lindgren, one of the geologists of the United States geological survey made a careful review of previous investigations of the ancient channels, and visited many districts in the northern and southern portions of the gold belt. The information collected by him will be compiled and later issued as a monograph, to be entitled the "Neocene Rivers of the Sierra Nevadas."

Reclamation of Carson River Valley.

One of the most important agricultural problems in western Nevada is the reclamation of the Carson River valley. This portion of the state joins the desert county of the Basin ranges, but the waters of the Carson river and its tributaries permit of irrigation and save it from being wholly unproductive. During the spring and early summer the river is swollen by melting snows on the Sierra Nevadas, but later in the season its volume becomes insignificant and no extensive reclamation through irrigation is possible at its low-water stages. Within the last few months, however, it has become apparent, through investigations made by the division of hydrography of the United States geological survey under the charge of L. H. Taylor, that with the proper conservation of the wasted winter and spring flow by the construction of storage reservoirs, it would be possible to obtain enough water to irrigate not less than 20,000 acres of land now lying arid, besides materially increasing the reliability of the supply for lands already under cultivation. With this amount of land reclaimed for farming purposes, it is estimated that an increase in property values in the section reclaimed would amount to several million dollars. The estimated cost of this storage is less than $7 for each acre which can be irrigated, or about $300,000 for the total acreage reclaimed.

New Topographic Maps of California.

Among the recent topographic map sheets issued by the United States geological survey are two of parts of California. One of these is the Deep creek quadrangle, which covers a portion of San Bernardino county in southern California, and represents a part of the Mohave desert and the northern section of the San Bernardino mountains, in which is situated the forest reserve of the same name. A second, the Napa quadrangle, shows portions of Napa, Solano, Sonoma, Contra Costa, and Marin counties, and the country surrounding ... to the north of San Pablo and Suisun bays. The cities and towns of Napa, Vallejo, Benicia, Martinez, Fairfield, Sonoma, and others appear, and the rough and broken topography of the district is clearly indicated by the use of contours. Besides the topographic features, much valuable detail is included in the indication of highways, railroads, boundaries and streams, and also the altitudes above sea level, which can be read for all places on the map from the contour lines.

Repulsive Features.

Blackheads, pimples, greasy faces and muddy complexions, which are so common among women, especially girls at a certain age, destroying beauty, disfiguring and making repulsive features which would otherwise appear attractive and refined, indicate that the liver is out of order. An occasional dose of Herbine will cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver and so establish a clear, healthy complexion. 50c at Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

To Build a Chinese Cemetery.

A Philadelphia attorney has purchased a farm of 48 acres in Bensalem township for a syndicate, which purposes to establish a Chinese cemetery. It will be the only cemetery of its kind east of the Rocky mountains. Its projectors say that it will have one or more temples, and be laid out in every way to conform to Chinese customs. The principal pagoda will be nine stories high, and from the balconies will hang bells, which are to be rung at stated hours of the day and night—certain ones to keep the evil spirits away and others to guide the good spirits. The Chinese have been trying for a long time to obtain a tract of land on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, between New York and Philadelphia, for a cemetery.—(New York Commercial Advertiser.

"More Honor."

It is in the nature of the human mind that constant dwelling upon material grandeur induces a belief in the primacy of wealth, and in the righteousness of means by which wealth is gained. It was very recently that a statesman exclaimed, in hot eloquence, and in response to one who urged fair play to Cuba: "You are on dangerous ground, sir; in your talk about mere honor; you are likely to forget our business reputation."—(Henry Loomis Nelson in the June Century.

Who is the Most Popular Lady Employe in El Paso County?

The Gazette Will Tell You on the First Day of September

The Gazette's Contest for a magnificent $500.00 Piano, to be presented to the most popular lady employe in El Paso county starts tomorrow, Monday, July 14. The Piano to be given in this contest will be a superb instrument, the make and full description for which follows:

CROWN

Orchestral Grand

Made only in extra fancy mahogany and extra fancy walnut, double veneered both inside and out. Seven and one-third octaves. Overstrung scale. Three unisons to each note except in heavy bass section. Genuine ivory and ebony keys. Full iron frame. Genuine hand carved ornamentations. Inside veneer is bird's-eye maple, highly polished. Trusses, pilasters and mouldings are made of solid mahogany and solid walnut to match veneers. Nickel plated tuning pins. Music rack full length of top frame. Solid brass continuous hinges on lid and fall board, nickel plated. Nickel plated pedals, hammer rail and action brackets. Four pedals. Patent mouse proof device and all latest patented improvements. Warranted ten years. Height, 58 inches; length, 67 inches; depth, 28 inches; weight about 890 pounds.

Thirty-two instruments may be imitated by the New Orchestral Attachment. A tone pedal enables the player to change instantly to the desired tone, after which the rendition of music in that particular tone is simply a matter of technique on the part of the player. Any person who can play in the ordinary piano tone can quickly learn to execute in the various tones. The original and exclusive attributes and capabilities of the "Crown" Piano in its piano tone and its other "many tones" charm and attract all pianists and vocalists who hear it. The piano may be seen at any time at the Hext Music rooms, Tejon street.

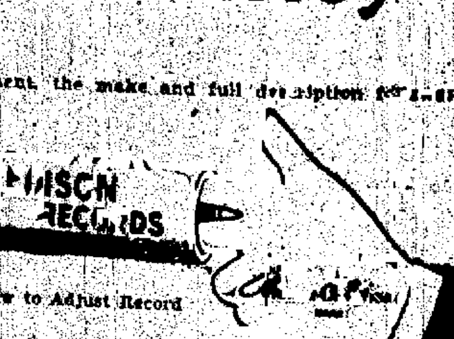

For the lady receiving the next largest number of votes

The Gazette will give a splendid Edison Triumph Phonograph, actuated by powerful triple springs, which drive the machine through fourteen standard size records with a single winding. Winds noiselessly, regulates perfectly. Simple, but effective construction, and in every respect a high grade machine. These machines retail for $65.00.

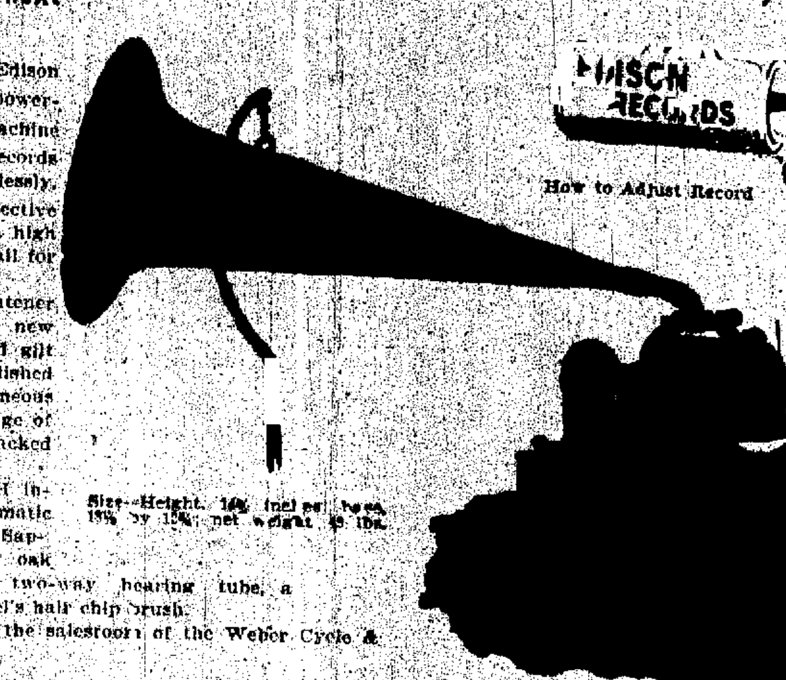

Removable steel bushings belt tightener and other useful devices. Has the new style cabinet, finished in black and gilt enamel, with nickel-plated and polished mandrel. Fitted with instantaneous speaker clamps for instant interchange of speakers. Full printed directions packed with each machine.

Every TRIUMPH PHONOGRAPH includes, free of charge, an Edison Automatic Reproducer, an Edison Recorder, a Sapphire shaving knife, oak body box, oak cover, a 14-inch polished brass horn, two-way hearing tube, a winding crank, an oil can and a camel's hair chip brush.

The Phonograph may be seen at the salesroom of the Weber Cycle & Supply Co., 118 N. Tejon St.

How to Adjust Record

Size—Height, 14½ inches; base, 13½ by 12¼; net weight, 19 lbs.

To the lady receiving the third largest number of votes

the Gazette will give a beautiful Imperial Chainless Wheel.

THE BEVEL-GEAR CHAINLESS—The development of interest in the Bevel-Gear Chainless Bicycle has been remarkable since the introduction of this type some three years ago. Like all new things it was received with some misgivings by theorists, but a more intimate knowledge of its real, practical worth has made enthusiastic friends for it. It is claimed for the bevel-gear system that no power is lost in transmission, the slightest pressure on the pedal being felt at the point of greatest resistance, and not absorbed by complex bearings, in which there is liable to be more or less lost motion. It must be admitted that the enclosed gears give the bicycle a neat and cleanly appearance, and save all the labor and annoyance usually experienced with the ordinary exposed chain and sprockets. One can ride a chainless in all kinds of weather, over muddy or dusty roads, and a moment's work with a wiping cloth will remove every trace of the journey. The gear after being once thoroughly lubricated demands no further attention for months. This machine cannot be purchased for less than $60.00. The Gazette bicycle is now being displayed in the salesrooms of A. S. Blake & Co., Tejon St.

PLAN OF THE CONTEST
BEGINNING TODAY, JULY 14, 1902

All persons who will subscribe for the Colorado Springs Gazette will be allowed to cast their votes for any lady employe in El Paso county they see fit.

For 1 month's subscription, $ .60, 60 votes will be allowed.
For 2 months' subscription, 1.20, 150 votes will be allowed.
For 3 months' subscription, 1.75, 250 votes will be allowed.
For 6 months' subscription, 3.50, 500 votes will be allowed.
For 12 months' subscription, 7.00, 1,000 votes will be allowed.

At the expiration of the contest, August 30, the lady employed having received the largest number of votes will be awarded the magnificent piano. To the second, the Phonograph. To the third, the Bicycle. This is an opportunity of a lifetime and the most liberal offer ever made by a newspaper. A list of the standing of the contestants will be published every Sunday until contest closes. People living outside of El Paso county may subscribe and have votes credited to any lady employe whom they may choose living in El Paso county.

Below find order blank. Subscribers must be careful to fill out in plain, legible hand and in each instance say to whom votes should be credited. All orders must be accompanied by cash, otherwise votes will not be credited.

N. B.—Old subscribers by paying in advance will be accorded the same voting privilege as new subscribers.

GET TO WORK

And get your friends to work for you. Begin early, as every day's work will count at the finish. The lady with the smallest number of votes the first week may have the most when the contest closes. Continuous effort is what counts. The contest will not close until August 30, but it will be a serious mistake to wait until the last week or even the second week. This is a long distance race for a good stake, so do not underestimate the importance of systematic work and perseverance.

VOTES IN THIS CONTEST WILL NOT BE TRANSFERABLE

COLORADO CITY, JULY 14.

STREET FAIR NETTED EAGLES ABOUT $800

The Eagles will clear about $800 as a result of the carnival held here during the week of June 30 to July 5. All of the bills are not in yet, but the receipts over and above expenses will be approximately the amount stated above. While this is not quite as large a sum as the Eagles expected to make on the carnival, considering the circumstances it is a good sum. The carnival did not open until Tuesday evening on account of the show people being delayed on their way here from Trinidad, and on the closing night, Saturday evening, the weather was threatening and the people did not turn out as they might have done if it had been favorable. The lights also went out during the evening and cut short the performances, so taking everything into consideration, the amount realized will be very good. The Eagles all worked hard for the success of the enterprise and they should have made more out of it. The proceeds will go into the sick fund of the order.

MISS EDMONDSON HAD MERRY PARTY

Miss Ida the Edmondson entertained about 25 of her friends at a party last Monday evening at her home, 311 Lincoln avenue. The evening was spent in playing various games and listening to the music. In a picture drawing contest Miss Daisy Morgan secured the first prize, a box of candy, and Floyd Shutter proved to be the winner of the booby prize, a rag doll. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening. The following young ladies and gentlemen were present: Misses Cecilia Gray, Daisy Morgan, Amelia Mendel, Emma Brandon, Katie Guth, Lillian Faulkner, Nellie Faulkner, Edna Moody, Maud Phelan, Martha Faulkner and Mae Oates, and Messrs. Bob Shroder, Sam Falk, Nordine Falk, Adolf Falk, Pearl Murray, Floyd Shutter, Bennet and Dickey.

Dr. Hartman, osteopath, 414 Colo Av.

JOSEPH THOMPSON IS WINNER OF "CORDOVE"

Joseph Thompson, better known as "Shorty," is the winner of the beautiful trick pony, which was presented to the Eagles by W. H. Moreland of Colorado Springs and raffled off on the last night of the carnival. Mr. Thompson has had the lucky ticket, No. 2,410, all the time, but did not know that it was a winner until just a day or two ago. The pony, which was one of the finest of Mr. Moreland's collection of trick ponies, is valued at $150.

The Perfect Liver Medicine.

Mrs. M. A. Jolley, Noble, O. T., writes: "I have used Herbine for a number of years, and can cheerfully recommend it as the most perfect liver medicine and the greatest blood purifier. It is a medicine of positive merit, and fully accomplishes all that is claimed for it." Malaria cannot find a lodgment in the system while the liver is in perfect order, for one of its functions is to prevent the absorption of fever producing poisons. Herbine is a most efficient liver regulator. 50c at Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

TRITE IN CANADA.

There Everybody Knows That Canals Benefit Railways.

A writer in the Engineering Magazine contends that no one will benefit more from the Panama canal than the transcontinental railway companies, which, amid the babel of false-tongued surmise, have commonly been assumed to have done all in their power to prevent its construction. In showing by numerous examples that the construction of canals and deepening of rivers have always benefited parallel railways, his attitude is by no means new. It is almost trite in countries like Canada, where canals are a large factor. Certain classes of freight, such as ore or grain, being heavy and bulky in proportion to their value, can be much more economically carried by ship than by rail. For this reason waterways develop countries which depend primarily on the rawest of products in a way which railway transportation alone cannot, making it, for instance, more profitable to grow grain there than when only railway transportation is available. This development reacts on the railways, which though deprived at least temporarily of their wheat, receive instead a larger amount of more profitable traffic, both passenger and freight. A result, similar in the main, though, of course, varying in detail, may be expected to a great extent from the Panama canal, which will provide a better route for such freight as could be carried cheaply. The cheap freight will then increase greatly, and the more paying traffic which will still go by rail will increase with it. In spite of this it is common for railway companies to oppose the opening of waterways. The New York Central once offered to give the transportation of grain from Buffalo to New York if they were given the money which it was proposed to spend in improving the Erie canal. American railway companies generally think they know where their financial interests lie, but they will hardly object if they find themselves mistaken and the Panama canal turns out to be a benefit to them as well as to the United States and the world in general. As a rule it will be found in the long run that what is good for all is good for each, and that there is still some truth in the old breezy adage that competition is the life of trade.—(Montreal Witness.

Where Employe and Employer Share.

Rufus Rockwell Wilson, in the June Success, describes, in an interesting manner, the town of Leclaire, Iowa, established by N. O. Nelson, the manufacturer, as a co-operative colony. Speaking of the sharing of profits, Mr. Wilson says:

Profit-sharing, as practiced in Leclaire, is based on earnings, and is an added percentage on wages. If the dividend is 2 per cent, a man with a salary of $1,000 receives $20 in addition, and an office boy whose wages are $200 a year gets a dividend of $4. The piece-worker has his share, the same as the man working for wages, and in his case the yearly sum of the earnings is the basis of percentage of extra profit.

No one is excluded from the list, and the men are also encouraged to become stockholders in the company which gives them employment. A share costs $100, and a man can buy as much or as little as he desires, or even a fraction of a share, paying for it out of his wages. During the last 10 years the workmen of Leclaire have received dividends on their wages equal to 7 per cent per annum, and those who invested a portion of their wages in stock have received in interest and dividends an average of about 3 per cent on their investment. Nohrial of the employes own stock in the company, although it is optional with them. The workman can buy it or not, as suits his pleasure, and when he quits Leclaire, if he wishes, to sell his stock, the company buys it for what he paid for it.

Rev. W. L. Riley, L. L. D., Cuba, New York, writes: "After 15 days of excruciating pain from sciatic rheumatism, under various treatments, I was induced to try Ballard's Snow Liniment, the first application giving my first relief, and the second, entire relief. I can give it unqualified recommendation." 50c and $1.00 at Hefley-Arcularius Drug Co.

It's just as unreasonable to take your plates and films to those wholly inexperienced and who advertise developing and printing as a side issue. Kodakery is expensive enough (as you know) at best. A poor picture is dear at any price. You can be certain of the very best that can be had if you take your work to Harlan, "The Exclusive View Man," 301 E. Pike's Peak ave.

CRIPPLE CREEK NEWS NOTES

Socialists Met in Mass Convention and Named Their Standard Bearers.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette

Cripple Creek, July 13.—There was a large attendance present this afternoon at the mass convention of the Socialist party, called for the purpose of nominating a full senatorial, legislative and county ticket. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock in the Elks' hall, and J. C. Provost of Cripple Creek was elected chairman and Anna C. Parrot of Goldfield secretary. The convention then got down to business and the following were placed in nomination on the senatorial ticket: J. J. Callahan of Victor for the third district; D. C. Copley of Independence for the 28th and W. F. Davis of Altman for the 29th senatorial districts. The nominees for members of the legislature chosen to represent the Socialist party in Teller and El Paso counties were the following: Forrest Woodside and W. E. Martin of Colorado Springs, Benjamin Caff and J. R. Nicholson of Cripple Creek, F. W. Mabry of Goldfield and Edward Minster of Altman. For county commissioner, J. H. Fox of Cripple Creek was declared the nominee. After the appointment of committees incident to the campaign, the convention was addressed by Ida Crouch Hazlett of Victor, S. H. W. Fox of Altman and the ex-Attorney General Eugene Engley and others. It was announced that E. V. Debs would deliver four addresses in the district: At Altman on August 14; Victor, on August 15; Cripple Creek, August 16, closing with an open air meeting at Pinnacle park on August 17.

At a meeting of the Cripple Creek District Press club at the city hall this afternoon the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: W. H. Griffith, Cripple Creek Times, president; W. C. Hyden, Victor Times, vice-president; S. W. Vidler, Denver Republican, secretary; Frank L. Mannix, Victor Times and county clerk of Teller county, treasurer; executive committee, P. J. Donohue, Rocky Mountain News; Tyan Chaefer, Daily Press; Charles Dugh, Goldfield Times. Suitable resolutions were passed on the death of S. M. Dyer, an honorary member of the club. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday evening, when a proposition to give an entertainment at the opera house by members and friends for the benefit of the organization will be fully discussed.

At a meeting of the "20 club" of the Cripple Creek mining district, held this evening, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: "Whereas, In the fulfillment of the Almighty's design, he saw fit to remove from our midst our devoted friend and esteemed fellow townsman, S. M. Dyer, we do hereby express to the bereaved family and friends of the deceased our sincere sympathy in their irreparable loss, and assure them that he held a place in the hearts of the people of this community which his public acts and private kindliness have made forever sacred."

The funeral services over the remains of the late S. M. Dyer will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Dyer undertaking parlors, the Rev. Ray officiating.

The biggest crowd of the season assembled this afternoon at Union park to witness the ball game between the Florence Eagles and their brethren from Victor. It was a ball game until the last ball was nearly knocked out of the lot by "Cis" Taylor of the Florence team after two men were out and two strikes had been called on him. The hit brought in two runs and finished a brilliant game. Second Baseman Patterson for Florence and Center Fielder Wilson of the home team played a sensational game in their respective positions. The score by innings was as follows:

		R.E.
Florence Eagles	2 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 2	7 3
Victor Eagles	1 0 1 0 0 1 0 1	6 5

Batteries, Graham and Shields for Florence, McCloskey and Moran for Victor; three-base hits, Shields 2, Taylor 1; two-base hits, Shields, Taylor, Westlake, Ingram, Burgess; struck out, by Graham 12, by McCloskey 7; bases on balls, Graham 1, McCloskey 5; stolen bases, Westlake 2, McCloskey 1; umpire, W. G. Graham; time, 1:40; attendance, 1,000.

The Cripple Creek Volunteer Hose company, the winner of the first prize at the recent Fourth of July celebration, understanding that the Manitou team, its competitor, is anxious for another test of speed, will meet that organization at either Cripple Creek or Colorado Springs for a side bet of $250 to $500 in a hub and hub race. The test to take place within one month of the posting of a forfeit by the Manitou team.

The habeas corpus proceedings in the J. H. Lynch case will be heard tomorrow morning in the district court.

NEWS NOTES FROM DENVER

Annual Meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians Begins Tomorrow.

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Denver, July 13.—The Ancient Order of Hibernians will begin its annual session in Denver Tuesday of this week. About 2,600 delegates and visitors are expected, and already a large crowd has arrived and they are stopping at the different hotels. All day today special trains and coaches came in carrying large delegations, and the local committee expressed confidence that as many would be present as had been expected. The officers and executive committee arrived tonight and a meeting will be held tomorrow preparatory to this convention. The order is a strictly Catholic society. During the past few days local papers have given considerable space to a story which says the order is on the point of a revolution over whether or not it will become political instead of religious in its nature and as to whether or not it will affiliate with the order known as the Clan-Na-Gael. In discussing these reports tonight with your correspondent, S. J. Donleavy of this city, who is chairman of the executive committee said: "Those reports are all bosh. There is nothing to them. The Ancient Order of Hibernians is a Catholic order in its entirety. The Clan-Na-Gael admits any Irishman, whether he be Catholic or not. We do not. All of our members are Catholics. The question as to our affiliating with that order will never be mentioned in the convention. As to our changing to a political organization, that story is also groundless. We include in our order Republicans, Democrats, Populists, and men of every political opinion, and should a member mention the subject of politics at one of our meetings, he would be called down. Our meetings will be the same as any other annual meeting of a society. We come together to discuss our needs and to try to strengthen our order, and not to discuss the advisability of affiliating with any other order, or of making our organization a political one."

An important feature of the session will be the electing of the next president. There are several candidates in the field, namely Hon. John A. Ryan of Boston, who is state president of the Massachusetts society, national vice president, James E. Dolan of Syracuse, N. Y., ex-national secretary, James O. Sullivan and Patrick O'Neill, both of Pennsylvania. The convention here is to be one of the largest in the history of the organization and extensive arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the visiting delegates.

NEWS NOTES FROM VICTOR

Victor Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Victor, July 13.—In the much-ne[illegible] drilling contest which took place this afternoon in the Gold Coin mine, the old time Sullivan drill beat the new Excelsior by four feet and several inches in one and a half hours' drilling. From $400 to $500 changed hands on these results. The records were for the Sullivan, 26 feet and some odd inches; for the Excelsior, 22 feet. It should be stated that while the Sullivan was handled by two men, the Excelsior employed but one. A large number of interested mining men watched the contest.

Mrs. Edward Dutell, aged 35, died at her residence near the Santa Rita mine this afternoon. She had been ailing for some weeks. Mrs. Dutell leaves a husband now employed at Gladstone, Colo., and a large family of small children to mourn her loss.

The Boss Worm Medicine.

H. P. Kumpe, druggist, Leighton, Ala., writes: "One of my customers had a child, which was sick, and threw up all food, could retain nothing on its stomach. He bought one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and it brought up 119 worms from the child. It's the boss worm medicine in the world." White's Cream Vermifuge is also the children's tonic. It improves their digestion and assimilation of food, strengthens their nervous system and restores them to the health, vigor and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood. 25c at Mefey-Apularius Drug Co.

NEWS NOTES FROM PUEBLO

Drowning of C. A. Thompson at Lake Minnequa—Once Lived In Colorado Springs

Pueblo Bureau.
Colorado Springs Gazette
With Colorado Securities Co.

Pueblo, July 13.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon occurred an accident at Lake Minnequa resulting in the death of C. A. Thompson, a drug clerk formerly employed in Colorado Springs at 101 South Tejon. Dr. Dorsey, a Mr. Hall and Thompson hired a boat for the afternoon from C. Erdmen. Thompson at the time made the statement to Mr. Erdmen that he could easily swim across the lake.

At the place where the accident occurred the lake is 30 feet deep. The men were launching the boat, it filled with water and went to the bottom.

Large crowds stood on the shore much excited, but could do nothing to aid the men. Four parties on the lake, with boats, but some distance from the drowning men, went to their assistance and rescued Dr. Dorsey and Hall, but were too late to save Thompson, who made great effort to keep afloat till help came, but went down finally when help was almost at hand. Coroner Dr. Fugard has had a crowd of men dragging the lake ever since the accident occurred, but so far without result. The coroner says the lake will be dynamited tomorrow if the body has not been found by that time.

Word has been sent to his relatives. His mother and sisters live at Clarinda, Ia., and his father at Armourdale, Kansas City.

C. A. Thompson was about 22 years old and a comparative stranger here.

The Butchers and Bakers unions met in joint session in the Trades Assembly hall this afternoon and drafted resolutions to withhold their assistance from the Cooks' and Waiters' union No. 7, now on strike.

TRINIDAD

(Special Correspondence.)

Trinidad, July 13.—The ringing of the fire bell at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon announced that the $10,000 had been raised for the starting of the electric street railway proposition. This amount was raised by the committee by subscription in less than a week. Final steps in matters concerning the franchises and contracts will be taken up and disposed of by the city council tomorrow night. Mr. Hartley says he has such arrangements made that the money for building the road will be forthcoming as needed and he will begin at once to survey the line. The $10,000 is to be deposited in the bank, to be turned over to Mr. Hartley when the road is completed and in operation.

Judge Lindsey rendered a decision in the county court yesterday that will have a far-reaching effect when he dismissed the cases against George Dorn and others, charged by Water Commissioner Garner with unlawfully using water. The decision holds that the water decree rendered in 1889 by General E. L. Campbell as special judge under appointment from Judge Gunter, the then district judge, is a nullity for the reason that the statute does not provide for the appointment of a special judge. If this decision is correct, it will require all of the ditch and water rights in district No. 19 to be readjudicated. This came as a great surprise to the farmers as they have relied on this decree for the past 22 years as settling water rights in this district forever.

Oil prospectors last week discovered some rock in the vicinity of Trinchera highly impregnated with oil. There has been a rush for this field, both from Trinidad and Raton. Many persons are now on the ground and practically all of the country from Trinchera to the Sin Isidro has been staked. The county clerk's office has been deluged with location certificates.

The Stonewall hotels are all crowded to overflowing by pleasure seekers. The new railroad makes access to this beautiful resort very easy. For several years the streams in that locality have been regularly stocked with trout and fishing there is very fine.

WOODLAND PARK

John Lillig, of the Golden Rod M. & M. Co., of Pemberton, was in town on business last week. He reports matters in a satisfactory shape at the camp.

Henry Rickon, who was hurt in the recent accident at Cascade, on the C. M. railroad, is still carrying his arm in a sling, and it will be some time before he can resume work. Mr. English who was killed in the same wreck, was well and favorably known here, and many warm friends regret his untimely death.

The Hotel Midland under the able management of Mrs. Hackman is being rapidly filled with summer boarders, scoring a decided success for the popular manager.

H. D. Hackman, for some years in business here, has sold out, and will take a well-deserved vacation from active business, and will try ranching for a change.

Engineer Meek was in Eleven-Mile canon last week, doing work for a Chicago company, which is contemplating extensive improvements there.

The lack of rain in the mountains is causing a serious uneasiness among the mountain ranch and stockmen, and it is feared that a great shortage of grass on the range will occur unless the summer rains set in soon. In the South Park country it is even worse than here, and in the vicinity of Hartsel, cattle and horses are being grazed in the hay meadows along the Platte river, as little or no grass is to be had in the hills. The Platte river is almost dry at Lake George.

Mrs. Pamelia Sanders, mother of our popular commissioner, who was hurt in a runaway accident last month, is improving very slowly, and it is to be hoped that she may soon be restored to health.

J. W. Green, who was hurt in the recent accident at Cascade, was for some time a resident of this place, and his friends will be glad to learn that he is improving at the hospital at Colorado Springs.

The deputy district attorney of Cripple Creek was in town last Friday, securing affidavits from the jurymen who sat on the famous Buzanes case, to be used in defeating the application for a new trial by the defendants.

Little Harry Tyler died on the 11th inst. at the home of his parents in Spinney of heart failure superinduced by pulmonary trouble. He was a bright boy, of lovable disposition, and will be sadly missed by his family. Interment was made at this place, funeral services being held by Rev. Silkwood, at the Free Methodist church. A large concourse of friends followed the remains to their last resting place in the Woodland cemetery. The family have a home here, but at present Mr. Tyler is agent at Spinney.

A. E. Hayes is enjoying a visit from a younger brother, whom he has not seen before for 15 years.

EDWARD VII. ARRESTED IN ILLINOIS.

He and His Party Shot Quail in the Close Season Back in 1860.

It was in the midst of one of the most important presidential campaigns in the history of the nation that King Edward VII, then the Prince of Wales, visited the United States. He had the opportunity of seeing five or six weeks of the most intense and fearfully earnest political fighting that the country had ever known. The Republican newspapers of that autumn bore in heavy letters, at the head of the first column of every page, "For President, Abraham Lincoln." In coming to St. Louis particularly, the prince had a chance to feel the pulse of the American people, for he passed directly through the country about Lincoln's home. At that time one of the correspondents of the old Missouri Democrat wrote as a cause for much self-gratification the fact that he had in one day seen both "the future king of England and the future president of the United States." But the boyish prince, traveling incognito as "Baron Renfrew," said little about these things.

Although President Buchanan, in his presidential message, immediately after "Baron Renfrew" had returned home, asserted that the visit of the prince had proved "a most auspicious event," and could not fail to "increase the kindred and kindly feeling" between England and America, the prince himself, it would seem, took little interest in the political developments of the time. According to the files of the old newspapers, his dominating motive, when in St. Louis, appeared to be that love of the open air, of horses and of hunting which has manifested itself during all his vigorous life as prince and king. Of hunting he was so fond that he and his party, on the way to St. Louis, disregarded the game laws in the state of Illinois, and actually were arrested and paid a fine because of the quail that they had shot at Stewart's Grove, near Dwight, Ill. The prince killed 28 quail, two prairie chickens and two rabbits on that day, history records, and there was an Irish servant in the party who was lost in admiration at royalty's unerring aim. He would scream with joy, it is said, at each lucky shot, and call out time after time to the Duke of Newcastle, "G'wan, mighty, Juke, look at 'im!"

Besides the Duke of Newcastle, the distinguished Englishmen who accompanied the prince were the Earl of St. Germains, Major-General the Honorable R. Bruce, Lord Lyons, Dr. Acland, Mr. Engleheart, Major Teesdale, Captain Grey, Mr. Jenner and Mr. Warre. Circumstances of this [illegible] favored them in coming to St. Louis, Sept. [illegible] after their arrival was "Big [illegible]" at the fair, and on the same day the [illegible] [illegible]

Wednesday afternoon, "Baron Renfrew" stayed much of the time in the pilot house, descending long enough to inspect the boat's machinery with Captain Haller, and also, in a very democratic way, to give a friendly greeting to an old Englishwoman who had come from a distant town in Illinois to see him, and who was moved to tears at his kindness. The old Barnum hotel, on Second and Walnut streets, was selected as the most elegant place of entertainment for the prince, and "five chaises," so the narratives say, met his party at the wharf to convey them thither. It was a very good-natured crowd that thronged the streets, ready, as crowds are now, to laugh at any incident out of which mirth could be made. A wagonload of colored folk which happened to be near Barnum's hotel was seized as the butt of ridicule, the "hooters" pretending to suppose that these were the noble people whom they were expecting. The poor colored men and women were quite overcome by the shouts of admiration and the salutatory bows, and they were glad when the real prince's party drew attention from them.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Talk to Girls.

We sometimes say of a woman that she does her work as well as a man, or that it cannot be distinguished from a man's work. This sounds like praise, but it is really blame. Something has been lost. Distinction is the crown of work.

I am no advocate of a narrower life for woman, but of a life which shall be broad enough for her to unfold her own nature. The worst slavery is that which makes a woman pretend to be a man.

The strenuous life for a girl is a form of hysteria. It is a functional disorder. It sacrifices strength for spasms.

Suppose she is at college, studying. How shall she get the best intellectual results: accuracy of perception, breadth of vision, delicacy of taste, respect for truth? By disregarding the balance of her physical and mental nature, and plunging into an intense pursuit of special knowledge, a fierce competition for marks and honors and prizes? That achievement, whatever it may be, will hardly compensate her (or us) for its probable cost. Poise is more precious than penetration. Learning may be a climb, but wisdom is a growth. The best that we know is the harvest of a quiet mind. The sanity of scholarship depends upon a normal life. The finest woman's college is a college for women. The best girls in it are never imitation boys.—(Henry Van Dyke, in Harper's Bazar.

Knights Received the Third Degree

Knights of Columbus from all over the state of Colorado were in Colorado Springs yesterday, the occasion being the exemplification of the third degree of the order.

Cripple Creek, Victor, Denver and Pueblo sent large delegations of members of the order, among whom were many candidates who were to receive the degree, besides those who came to witness the impressive ceremonies attending the exemplification of the work. Probably 100 knights were present from out of town, in addition to the numerous members of the local chapter.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the visiting and local knights attended mass at St. Mary's church and afterwards in Columbian hall a luncheon was served by the lady friends of the members of the organization. A pleasing feature of this part of the day's program was the music rendered by an orchestra under the direction of Professor Leo F. Giles.

The main exercises of the day were held in the Odd Fellows hall at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and State Deputy Supreme Knight P. L. McAroie of Chicago with a select staff exemplified the degree, about 60 candidates from various parts of the state receiving the work. While the exercises were being held, the ladies of St. Mary's church entertained the visiting ladies, taking them to various points of interest in Colorado Springs and the immediate vicinity. In the hall in the evening, after the formal exercises were completed, another luncheon was served. Most of the visitors returned by the evening trains last night, although a few of them stayed over and will not leave for their homes until some time today.

Daylight Burglary at the Elk Hotel

A burglar broke into a sleeping room in the rear of the Elk hotel Saturday evening during the dinner hour and secured $195 in cash.

The room in which the money had been left was that of Miss Minnie Peak, the pastry cook of the hotel, who had put the cash in a mackintosh which was hanging in the room. Entrance to the room was effected by pulling out a window screen while the cook was at work during the time for the service of dinner, and the money was taken from the garment probably by one who was familiar with the movements of the woman and of the place in which she had deposited the bills. Traces of the one who did the work were found on the bed covering, dirty footprints having been made by stepping upon it.

Notice was sent to the police immediately and the detectives were put to work on the case. There are several clews and suspects now being watched, with the result that the dragnet will probably close about the guilty person today.

Convict Tracy Yet at Large

Bloodhounds and Sheriffs' Deputies Lose the Scent—Small Boy Had a Vision.

By Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., July 13.—A special to the Post-Intelligencer from Enumclaw, Wash., says:

After two days of inactivity the man hunters are once again on the trail of Harry Tracy, the outlaw convict. At 5:30 o'clock tonight the bloodhounds were placed on his track, and after following it for three-quarters of a mile, lost it in a dense swamp that borders the road leading from here to Buckley. The wires have been kept humming for two hours with messages to surrounding towns and it is believed that Tracy will be either killed or captured by noon tomorrow. Tracy was seen at 5 o'clock this afternoon one and a half miles east of Enumclaw by Clarence Burke, a 15-year-old boy. He was sitting near the edge of a gravel pit. The lad passed on a bicycle. Hailing the lad Tracy inquired the road to Buckley. The lad imparted the information desired and then hastening into town imparted the news of what he had seen. The information was telephoned Former Sheriff Wolery in charge of the posse at Enumclaw by Sheriff Bachman of Pierce county, who happened to be here, and also Deputy McKillen at Buckley. Wooley and five guards procured a train as soon as possible and came here with the bloodhounds.

For Extradition of Gaynor and Greene

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 13.—Steps have been taken by the state department for the extradition to the United States of John F. Gaynor and B. D. Greene, now under arrest at Quebec, Canada. A formal application for their extradition has been made by Secretary Hay to Mr. Raikes, charge d' affaires of the British embassy, who is now at Newport, and who, it is expected, will cable the request promptly to his government. The grounds on which extradition is asked are comprehensive in character. This action of the state department is independent of the proceedings now in progress to obtain the extradition of the men through ordinary judicial process. The secretary has not yet acted on the suggestion of the department of justice that there are obstructions placed in the way of Canadian proceedings by reason of connection of counsel for Messrs. Greene and Gaynor and crown officers.

Machinists Aggressive.

By Associated Press.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, July 13.—The striking boilermakers and machinists of the Union Pacific railway in this city have become aggressive during the last day or two, and now have pickets posted and every reasonable effort is being used by them to get the men who have supplied their places to desist. Today six of the men who had been imported threw up their jobs and have already started for their homes in the east.

Epworth League Officers Installed

At the Methodist Episcopal church, South, yesterday morning the Rev. F. A. Henry of Smithville, Mo., preached the sermon, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number in attendance at the services.

Last evening the pastor of the church, Rev. C. Evans Carrington, installed the new officers of the Epworth League, who are as follows: A. J. Delap, president; Samuel Carlton, first vice president; Miss Hilda Carrington, second vice president; W. A. Cloyd, third vice president; Miss Dora Snoddy, secretary; Miss Bessie Carroll, treasurer.

The conference year is drawing to a close and next month will see the end of Mr. Carrington's second four-year period as the head of this congregation. Some time ago Mr. Carrington announced that he would retire and he has not changed his determination to do so.

Postal Employes Attended Service

A number of the employes of the local postoffice attended the services at the First Congregational church last evening, the program of the meeting having been especially arranged for them by the Men's Sunday Evening club of the church.

The music program was a very enjoyable one and included a beautiful clarinet solo by Frederick B. King of Bridgeport, Conn., who has been spending a few days with friends in this city. Miss Crissey also rendered a fine contralto solo. Dr. Greig delivered a very appropriate sermon entitled "The Moral and Spiritual Service Rendered by the Postoffice to Mankind."

LARGE CROWDS—Large crowds went to Cheyenne park yesterday, both in the morning and in the afternoon. From 3 o'clock to 5 the Midland band played and gave one of its best concerts. A feature was the number entitled "The Musical Critic's Dream," or "A Modern Melody Among the Old Composers."

Mont Pelee Is in State of Eruption

By Associated Press.

Port De France, Island of Martinique, July 13.—Last night and today Mont Pelee was in eruption, the activity being as great as that of Saturday and Wednesday last. Morne Rouge, Ajoupa, Bouillon and Macouba were covered with stones and cinders and were rendered uninhabitable for several hours. The volcano emitted a dense column of flame and at the same time electrical phenomena were observed. The eruption was accompanied by a deep rumbling resembling continuous thunder. There were no fatalities reported, but the inhabitants of the northern part of the island were panic stricken, all the residents of Port De France remaining calm, however. The French scientific mission has been recalled from Guadaloupe by the governor and started this morning for Mont Pelee.

China Appoints Minister to Succeed Wu Ting Fang

By Associated Press.

Peking, July 13.—Sir Liang Chen Tung, secretary of the Chinese embassy to the coronation of King Edward, was today appointed Chinese minister to the United States.

New ministers to Russia, France and Italy have also been named. The selections for these posts show that the dowager empress continues to regard the diplomatic services as unimportant. None of the appointees is of higher than the blue button rank and none has held any important office. All of them, except Liang Chen Tung, are unknown to the foreign community. Liang Chen Tung's appointment pleases the Americans here. The newly appointed diplomat was educated in America. He is a graduate of Yale university and is able, dignified and honest. He is the first of the body of students sent to America in the seventies to receive recognition befitting their accomplishments, the Chinese officials having disliked them because of their progressive views.

Washington, July 13.—Mr. Wu, the Chinese minister at Washington, was not surprised to hear of the appointment of a successor to himself as he has been expecting an announcement of this charac er for some time. He has received notice that his services would be required in another capacity and for this reason has been prepared to hear of the naming of his successor at any time. Sir Liang Chen Tung, the newly appointed minister, is a comparatively young man, being only a little over 40 years of age. Like the present minister, he is said to be a man of progressive ideas, whose opinions have been formed from his education, which was received partly in the United States, from his former connections with the Chinese embassy here and from his contact with European civilization. In the course of several special missions, Chen was one of the four parties of Chinese boys who were sent to the United States about 20 years ago for the purpose of completing their education. The idea of the Chinese government was to have each of the boys spend 15 years in this country, 10 years in the preparatory schools and the remainder in the universities. Before Chen had completed his course, however, the plan was discontinued and he returned home. While Chang was minister to Washington some years ago Chen served as interpreter during the three years of his incumbency. Later he was secretary of a special mission sent to Japan, and when the jubilee of Queen Victoria was celebrated he filled a similar position to the embassy which went to London. It was from his connection with the latter mission that he obtained his knighthood and received the title of Sir. Last year when China despatched a special mission to Germany to make formal apologies for the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, Chen was a member of the party.

Minister Wu has not been officially advised of the appointment of his successor. The retiring minister, Mr. Wu, has been at this capital since April, 1897. His relations with the administrations of Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt have been of a most cordial character. The ordinary term of ministers in the Chinese diplomatic service, however, has been continued indefinitely from then to now. He was of great assistance to his government during the Boxer troubles. Several months ago he was appointed a member of the commission to codify the existing Chinese laws and prepare a set of modern laws for his country, and it is believed this will in all probability be the work the Chinese government has in store for him when he returns to his native land.

Mr. Wu is also minister to Spain

MADE HIM HOMESICK.

"'Ere's your Dily Times!" cried the newsboy as he ran through the crowd of sightseers in London. "'Ere's your Dily Times! All habout the corrynation! Corrynation hextra!"

"Ah!" mused the Kansas man who had gone over on a cheap excursion. "How homelike that sounds. But I didn't know that Carrie had made the trip to England, too."

Breathing Exercises Alone, Are Seldom Necessary.

Therefore, it will be understood that a teacher of physical training should make the course as attractive as she can, so that the pupils will like it, even though they may not appreciate it. This is very important because, obviously, the more they like the work, the more good it will do them. For this reason music is desirable as an accompaniment.

Some teachers of physical development make breathing exercises an important part of their work. At Bryn Mawr we do not give breathing exercises—at least, we do not make a point of them; for all exercise tends to induce healthful respiration. The faster the blood flows, the more oxygen it will demand, and get, without our conscious effort. The body, put in good health by exercise, will be permanently benefited by the four years' work, and the habits of exercise, and the consequent habits of breathing, incident to the exercise, will likewise tend to become permanent.

The point is sometimes made that exercise for the general health, as administered at college, is a sort of stimulant to the body, and that this stimulant will act only so long as the exercise is regularly continued. As soon, however, as the daily exercise falls off, as it usually does after leaving college, it is contended that, with the cessation of the stimulant, the resulting physical benefit ceases, and more than that, that there is usually a reaction and that the result attained is useless.—(From "The Importance of Physical Culture in Women's Colleges," by Dr. Louisa Smith, in June Success.

...exchange of discord. A man of the masterful character of President Roosevelt is sure to have more or less friction with the party war-horses; he has very definite ideas on national questions and a very wholesome indifference to what is merely politics; he has the courage of his convictions and signs are not wanting that he intends in the near future to take a fall out of the questions of trusts and labor troubles. These are two of the most pressing yet most delicate and difficult questions of the day, and there will be many heartburnings among politicians of both parties before they are settled. There is danger to whatever party grapples with them, yet the party which handles them successfully will gain lasting popularity. The Republican party has always shown great practical wisdom in handling business affairs. It is the party which has stood for the protection of the workingman from foreign competition and it has always risen to every emergency which confronted it in the past, so there is every reason for believing that it has the ability and capacity for meeting successfully the questions of the future. The currents of official life in Washington, while congress was in session, didn't all flow smoothly, and the old party leaders who for years have had great weight in national and partisan affairs and great influence at the White house found they had a new and independent force to deal with. The Republicans, however, have kept their disagreements strictly within the domestic circle; their family skeleton is locked tightly in the closet and the rattle of his bones is scarcely audible to the outside world. He may crumble to dust in seclusion and may never be heard of again, or he may stalk forth at the next session of congress in the shape of reciprocity, restriction of trusts or rivalry for party leadership which may gravely endanger party success by internal discord. But at present the party in power can feel reasonably content with the success of its policies at home and abroad. Imperialism, irrigation, the Isthmian canal, the tariff, except in its relation to trusts and the money question are no longer live issues.

With the Democratic party the situation is entirely different. It must find issues on which to appeal to the country, but it must first compose the factional quarrels of its leaders which have broken out afresh lately. They not only wash their dirty linen in public, but hang it on the line and ask the whole country to see what a poor success they make of the laundry business. The celebrated harmony dinner at the Tilden club, which was an honest effort on the part of the eastern Democrats in that direction, discovered a remarkable lack of harmony. It made evident the fact that for some years past the differences of opinion on public questions and on party policy, and the jealousy and dislike of the leaders for each other have been so great that what is called the Democratic party is really two parties of different political ideals and united only in the hope of defeating the party in power. Should such a disunited party as that ever succeed at the polls, it could only fail in congress; its legislation would be impotent and unsatisfactory. Mr. Bryan evidently prefers the role of dictator to counsellor. He thinks that if he abates his former sentiments on public questions one jot or one tittle, he will be sacrificing his principles. A man in that state of mind is a difficult subject to deal with and we don't envy his party associates and rivals their task.

A WHITE ELEPHANT FROM SIAM.

THE people of the United States seem to have an unlimited fund upon which to draw for the purpose of entertaining royal princes from Germany or England, but Siam is not on the list of our good friends for whom expense is no object.

Since the information was received that the Prince of Siam intends to come to this country in September, some of our diplomats have been investigating the cost of entertainment. The estimate that it will take about $50,000 a day to meet the princely expectations has tended to discourage hospitality, and even the most enterprising St. Louis World's Fair commission is inclined to dodge the honor of entertaining the guest from Siam.

It looks very much as though this prince would have to be satisfied with a Philadelphia meal, and accept whatever he is able to pay for, the same as other travelers, royal or otherwise.

Lord Kitchener is by no means a perfect hero, but the British people seem to have made up their minds that he will do very well in default of a better.

ENTERPRISE AT TRINIDAD.

A GOOD example of the way cities grow is given by Trinidad. That city wanted an electric rapid transit line, and instead of waiting until it fell down out of the sky, or until someone came along with one that he wanted to get rid of, the merchants of the enterprising community set to work and succeeded in raising the sum of $10,000, a considerable sum for a place of that size.

As a result the city will have its system of electric communication within its own limits and with the neighboring coal camps, while the enterprise thus displayed is certain evidence that future opportunities will be met in similar fashion.

A demand has been made upon the United States postal authorities for a smaller postage stamp, to be used upon the very small envelopes now fashionable in certain circles. The only effect of the request is likely to be to call attention to a growing nuisance and to cause the adoption of a regulation prohibiting the sending of envelopes of less than a certain size through the mail. There is already a maximum limit, and the very small envelope is almost as much of a bother as the very large one. The small envelope is harder to read, harder to handle and the chances of its being lost or missent are very greatly increased. Whatever may be the dictates of fashion, there is nothing that speaks so well for the good taste and good sense of the sender as an envelope of ordinary size, shape and color, with the stamp right side up in the upper right hand corner and with the address neatly and legibly written in the usual place.

their names are not synonymous with any good work that has ever been accomplished in this state.

In recent years in Colorado, Socialism has been infantile; although Populism has worked enough hardship on the people to make up for what Socialism did not accomplish owing to its small following.

The relegated and aspiring politicians of both the Republicans and Democratic parties of this state are, to a great extent, responsible for the deplorable conditions which existed up until two years ago—conditions that placed Colorado in a chaotic feud, the result being a loot of funds from the state treasury, incompetent office holders, a pilfering of anything and everything, and last of all the good name of our state placed in the category of anarchist states.

The platform adopted by the Socialists in convention at the Springs is a reiteration of defunct Populist platforms, varying only in that more of the earth is wanted by these men who are closely akin to the class of anarchists who argue that all things can be righted, even if the bomb has to be resorted to.

There is no law providing that the Socialist ticket shall not be recognized and obtain a place on the ballot; but the thinking and intelligent voter of Colorado should be thankful that the right of suffrage is granted to vote as he sees fit, and this right will bury the Socialist ticket so deep this fall that several years will have elapsed before it will again attempt to foster its anti-ideas on a state and people whose prosperity awaits the man who is willing to abide by the Constitution.—(Alamosa Independent Journal.

According to the Cripple Creek Press, there are in this district about 15 would-be Socialists who are barred from membership in that party by reason of the fact that they are holding office under another political party.

The Press deprecates this ultimatum of the Socialists. But are the Socialists so very wrong? To hold office under one party and to pledge allegiance to another savors very strongly of serving two masters, a dual role which, according to a familiar scriptural axiom, is fraught with hypocrisy and evil.—(Victor Times.

Lieutenant Governor Coates, who misrepresented the court records in order to grant a pardon to the murderer Van Houten, in order to gain the good will of the labor unions, still persists that he is a Socialist, although he was driven out of the Socialist convention at Colorado Springs on July 4. Likely he is an anarchist.—(Boulder Herald.

The rank and file of the Socialist party were not deceived by Lieutenant Governor Coates in his quiet play to make that party the tail of the Democratic kite, so they simply sat on him in the convention at the Springs Saturday. The result was that he wouldn't play and took his rag doll and went home. The wonder is now what party he will swear allegiance to next.—(Florence Tribune.

Socialism is "impracticable" only because so many are interested in not having it put into practice. Socialism would dispense with the competitive system among the working classes as well as among the capitalists. The latter are rapidly abolishing the competitive system themselves so far as possible because they find it to their advantage to do so. It is practicable for the capitalists to eliminate competition and there is no good reason why labor cannot do the same thing.—Silver Plume Standard.

The preliminary state convention of the Socialist party at Colorado Springs last Saturday was somewhat of a farce. The only sensational feature of the meeting was the demand made by the delegates that all members of the Socialist party resign any office that they might be holding as members of other parties. This was a direct slap at Lieutenant Governor Coates, and he very properly withdrew from the Socialist party. A number of nominations were made for each place on the state ticket and from among these the candidates will later be chosen by a referendum vote. The efforts of Republican shysters to create a division of sentiment among the common people do not seem to be meeting with much success.—Silverton Standard.

It is an insult to the intelligence of organized labor to ask it to believe that the election of a Socialist ticket is possible now or in the remote future in Colorado. Why, even the Socialistic leaders cannot agree among themselves, either on a platform or on candidates. At Colorado Springs they kicked Lieutenant Governor Coates out of their convention and then indulged in the inelegant pastimes of denouncing each other as "fakirs" and "grafters." And inasmuch as they seem to know each other best, it is probable more than a modicum of the truth was told in the verbal melee. Still these same "fakirs" and "grafters" ask the support of the wage earners of the state, and for no other reason than that they engage in the harmless amusement of talking much and saying little that is sensible.

It is unlikely that the wage earners of Colorado, after the service done them by Democratic legislatures will follow the will-o-the-wisp of Socialism into the quagmire of the impossible.—Colorado Democrat.

ABOUT COLORADO

HOW COLORADO IS BLEST.

Colorado is receiving another emphatic object lesson of the contrast in her favor of weather conditions as compared with many other states. With the reports of death-dealing and property-destroying floods in Iowa, Illinois and even as near to us as Nebraska and Kansas, comes the news of many deaths from heat in Pittsburg and other eastern cities. Colorado's climate precludes the possibility of either floods or fatal heat, a sunstroke being as rare as a death from floods. We have our disadvantages in another direction and in one respect an entirely opposite direction but even then there is a mitigation in the growing application of irrigation.

We had a striking lesson in this during the summer of 1900 when the drouth in the eastern states was blighting everything in its wide path. One of the New York papers wired to the governor of Wyoming along with other governors asking for estimates as to the amount of damage done by the drouth. The Wyoming executive replied that the Wyoming farmers were not having any [illegible] that there was such a no opportunity for its display that the paper printed it. It was given wide circulation by means of the paper in which it appeared originally and also by reproduction in other eastern papers. This opened the eyes of many easterners who ever since Daniel Webster termed this region the "Great American Desert," had been left under the impression that the country along the base of the Rocky Mountains was in reality irredeemable barren waste. But the great white light has at last broken upon those people and now they are beginning to see our possibilities, with the aid of irrigation, by which the great deposits of snow that fall in the mountains in the winter months are conserved and made to water the fertile land so that the finest crops of vegetables and fruits in the world, to say nothing of grain, are produced here. It is becoming known throughout the nation that we have something out here besides mines and that those who come to cast their lots with us may have the choice of a varied assortment of occupations.

Unfortunately this season there is less snow in the mountains than there has been since 1859, owing to the unusually dry winter, but the old inhabitants say that we will get an "evening up" on that score this summer; that when the snow fall in the winter is light we invariably have more rain in the summer and fall. They argue that we must get a certain amount of precipitation during the year, and if it does not come at one time we will get it at another.—(Cripple Creek Times.

It is gratifying to note that the systematic advertising of Colorado in the early or the prosecution of which real estate men of the cities of the state recently organized in a successful and notable convention held in Denver, is about to be undertaken with vigor. Mr. Herbert Burdett, already well known in the Arkansas valley, is now in Pueblo to spend several days and keep the real estate men and newspapers of this city in touch with the general plan. Mr. Burdett gives a good account of the progress already made. The real estate men's "push movement" has opened headquarters in an eligible building on Eighteenth street in Denver and rooms have been completely furnished. It is proposed to boom Colorado and its resources in the east in regular California style. Among other methods there will be lectures and stereopticon pictures by means of which the attention of many thousands of people will be attracted to Colorado's resources, its scenic beauties and its climate.—(Pueblo Chieftain.

ABOUT THINGS IN GENERAL

This is a great big country—700,000 of our citizens engaged as employes of the railroads alone. Big as we are, however, these industrial armies are large enough to stop the [illegible] of travel and congest the traffic of the country at their own sweet will. The tyranny of capital matched by the tyranny of labor make your Uncle Samuel occasionally the plaything and sport of some J. Pierpont Morgan or some John Mitchell or Eugene V. Debs. And as yet, no statesman has been able to find a way to escape the difficulties such awful powers put in the way.—(Boulder Camera.

What use has Colorado for Democracy anyhow? This is a state composed of bright, intelligent people with modern ideas. It is a state without traditions, without moss-back philosophy, ready to experiment for the best, strive for the best, and use the best without being retarded by the ancient and obsolete. Democracy is proverbially the party of inaction; it has some virtues, for it never happens that all the virtues are the exclusive property of any one party, but it lives in the past and is always looking backward. Its spirit is not adapted to a state full of energy, hope and progress. The federal irrigation bill could never have been passed had the president, house or senate been Democratic.—(Delta Independent.

No greater boon was ever granted the west by congress than the passage of the irrigation bill by which reservoirs will be made for the storage of water for irrigating purposes. Colorado and her sister states owe their sincere thanks to congress, regardless of partyism, for this great favor, and it may be depended upon that they will make the most of the gift. The government will lose no time in making surveys for reservoir sites and have the work of building levees and embankments started. The great west is getting its just recognition at last.—(Bessemer Indicator.

The Republican party is entitled to all the honor for the passage of the irrigation act by congress. The bill is one in violation of the so called democratic principles which in general forbade the expenditure of federal money for internal improvements. Jefferson, Jackson, Tilden and all the great lights of Democracy, ancient and modern, have claimed that such expenditures of federal money were unconstitutional. Another feature of the irrigation act that offends the Democratic instinct is that it is something new. The old Bourbon spirit that still dominates the party revolts at anything in the way of an experiment. New legislation, changes or progress of any kind is undemocratic. If the people of Colorado had waited until a Democratic administration had passed an irrigation bill they would have had to wait a long time.—Delta Independent.

ABOUT CONGRESS

The Fifty-seventh congress has completed its first session and has left behind it a record which presages victory for the Democratic party at the fall elections. Between their subserviency to the trusts and monopolies and their desire to eliminate Mr. Roosevelt from the presidential position of 1904, the Republican leaders have converted the session of congress, during which their party has had control not only of both branches of the legislature but of the executive department of the government as well, into a dismal fiasco. Of the legislation recommended by Mr. Roosevelt, but few measures have been enacted and most of these were passed contrary to the dictation of the leaders and only by the aid of Democratic votes.—(Como Record Dem.)

The great stumbling block to Democratic harmony is not [illegible] the differences are almost [illegible] also that there is now [illegible] a man [illegible] no great anxiety to find a common ground upon which all the factions can meet. But necessity is a stern teacher. The Democrats must make some effort to get together or after 1904 there will not be any party bearing their name.—(Fort Collins Express.

ABOUT STATE POLITICS

Colorado Republicans cannot afford to load their platform down this year with glittering generalities. The document should say what it means in good, strong, plain English and mean what it says. This is no time to trifle with bombast, eagle flights, flap doodle or catch penny phrases. Make it short, to the point and fill it full of nourishing meat. It should be thoroughly Republican and plain that it cannot be misunderstood or misconstrued. The people are dreadfully tired of meaningless platforms.—(Fort Collins Courier.

ABOUT THE WEATHER

In New Mexico they are praying for rain, while in Iowa and Illinois the country is deluged. The rain clerk of the weather bureau moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform. He is evidently not a believer in the socialistic doctrine that there ought to be a way of equalizing things on this mundane sphere. Equalizing social conditions by law would be just about on a par with an attempt to equalize weather conditions by the same process.—(La Junta Tribune.

FROM THE PRESS OF THE NATION.

A Uniform Militia System.
(Atlanta Constitution.)

The bill to modernize the militia of the nation did not pass at the recent session of congress. Nor did it receive the attention from the members that its importance demands, for the present system is notoriously ragged and a delusion in the day of actual national necessity. Nothing more humiliating to national pride, or more dangerous in certain emergencies, could be imagined than the spectacle presented by our militia system and its output at the beginning of the Spanish-American war. It was simply disgraceful.

General Dick, chairman of the militia committee of the house of congress, has reported a bill looking to the reorganization of the militia system and giving to it a uniform status and equipment in every state of the union. The purpose of the bill is eminently right and necessary. In its details there are manifestly modifications and amendments needed that can be worked out while the bill is on its passage. They are necessary to conform the proposed system to the general democratic form of our interrelated national and state governments.

The system ought not to be very difficult to provide. It should conform in all respects as to organization, uniforms, equipments, drill and tactics to the standards of the United States army as they may be established by the acts of congress. All that would seem to be necessary is to so declare and make congressional appropriations for the militia of the several states depend upon conformity with those laws.

So far as the official personnel of the militia is concerned, that should be left entirely to the states. All officers of state troops should be from their own body and have the confidence of the rank and file they are to command and the enthusiasm of local and state pride. The idea of officering and ordering such troops by national authorities, except when mustered into national service, is contrary to the genius and spirit of our American system.

With this latter matter properly safeguarded, the militia of the union can be made a uniform and effective body—a reserve army—perhaps a quarter million strong, and sufficient to fully complement the regular army in the first instance of any war that may be thrust upon us.

A Brave Experiment.
(New York Mail and Express.)

It is proper that the United States should go about the task which it has to administer in the Philippine islands in a way of its own. No one else has attempted to do the liberal and constructive thing that we are doing there. England has never attempted it in India. Her realm there, as well as in Borneo and the other Malay states, is made up partly of an absolute despotism of her own, as in Bengal, Madras, the Northwest Provinces, and the Punjab, and of protected native despotisms, as in Hyderabad and Baroda. There is no Indian legislature, and probably never will be.

The rule of Holland over more than 24,000,000 near kinsmen of our Filipinos in Java is absolute, unqualified. No legislature there; no admission of the natives to the smallest civil authority. The thing that we began to do in the Philippines when we landed there, and kept up in spite of war, has never been done after centuries of profound peace in Java. Even the land has been taken by the Dutch, and the people who earn wealth for them by working it are taxed merely for the privilege of living.

In Formosa the Japanese have a somewhat similar problem to ours in the Philippines. They have not yet solved it; but so far as they promise to solve it, it is wholly on a Japanese, and not on a native, Formosan, basis.

In the Philippines we are doing a thing unique in colonial history. We are giving administrative freedom and jurisdiction in government to a native [illegible] never had them. It is true that we are supposed to possess an advantage in having a Christian population to deal with. But government is not a matter of religion, and no one can claim that Christian Filipinos are any fitter to govern themselves than Japanese [illegible] of Parsee fire worshipers. As a matter of fact, [illegible] faith has not [illegible] that, with [illegible] virtues above [illegible]

The United States is carrying Anglo-Saxon principles into the orient with true American [illegible]. We earnestly hope they will [illegible] there. [illegible]

A... HURT BY AN EXPLOSION

Three Children Playing With Powder, on the West Side, Were Badly Hurt by an Explosion.

William, Arthur and Gertrude Clark, children of W. J. Clark of 421 Pine street, were seriously injured at 6:10 o'clock last evening by the explosion of a pop bottle, which contained about six drachms of powder. The glass was broken into small particles and driven through the clothes and into the arms and legs of the three children. Arthur Clark was the most seriously hurt, having some 20 perforations in his leg and numerous cuts in the left arm.

The children had obtained the powder from giant firecrackers on the Fourth of July that had failed to go off when the fuse was lit. Their father had forbid them to touch the bottle with the powder in it, but when their parents had gone they took the bottle out into the back yard and set fire to a string that was placed in the mouth of the bottle. Waiting a few minutes, the powder not going off, they came up close just as the explosion took place.

Cy B. Herbert, living next door, at 420 Pine, was the first on the scene after the explosion, which was heard as far as five blocks away, and those near state that it was deafening. Herbert saw the children bleeding and at once started for Mr. and Mrs. Clark, who had started for church and were several blocks away from their residence. Upon reaching home and seeing the condition of his children Mr. Clark fainted, but soon recovered and started for a physician. Drs. Estill, Martin and Mann were called and used an hour and a half in picking out the particles of glass from the numerous wounds and taking stitches.

William Clark, aged 13 years, received four wounds in the right leg, between the ankle and the calf; three cuts in the hip, one of which is about two inches long and 1½ inches deep, and very painful.

Arthur Clark, aged 11, was the most seriously hurt, being nearest to the bottle when the powder exploded. Both legs were cut with numerous gashes, ranging from one to two inches in length. One or two are over an inch in depth. The left arm is cut in 10 places. In the wrist an artery is laid bare, but not severed.

Gertrude Clark, aged eight, was cut in the ankle and groin and above the left eye. The cuts were slight, but her dress was torn in many places. Dr. Estill stated to a representative of the Gazette later in the evening that he saw no reason why Arthur's back, the most seriously injured, should not recover rapidly if no complications or blood poisoning should occur. The children were resting well at a late hour last evening.

VERY BAD AIR AT ... STATION

Twenty Gallon Tank of Formaldehyde Sprung a Leak and the Firemen Had to Move Out Hoboes in Bridal Chamber.

One of the most peculiar accidents that has ever been recorded in this city took place at the police and fire headquarters last night when a 20-gallon tank of formaldehyde sprung a leak in the main jail room and everybody in the building had to give up residence there for a time.

The tank was in the main jail room, just north of the cage, when it suddenly burst, owing to the heat in the room, and filled the entire building with its fumes, the effect being to compel everyone to evacuate in hurry up order. The chemical is used by the city for fumigating buildings in which contagious disease has existed and is an exceedingly unpleasant and dangerous drug.

The firemen, who were asleep in their apartments, were compelled to get up and spend the remainder of the night in the street in front of the city hall. The police shut up their office and opened the windows wide in Chief King's private office, where department business was conducted last night. The prisoners in the city jail ... the alarm of the explosion ... and who were not much short of suffocated when rescued ... the bridal chamber, the windows of which will open wide and there they were housed for the night.

It will take some time to rid the building of the deadly fumes.

Railway Men Begin Meeting Here Today

The week now beginning will be an important one for Colorado Springs in the fact that it will witness two important railway conferences. The Western Passenger association will meet here today and the Transcontinental Passenger association will convene tomorrow for a several days session. Messrs. John Sebastian, M. P. Bluet and T. Thompson, of Chicago, arrived yesterday at the Antlers and last night a large number of others made their appearance.

The meetings will be watched with interest by railway men in general, as some important matters are to be considered.

BIG Y. M. C. A. MEETING IN THE NORTH PARK

At the men's meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in the North park yesterday about 100 people were present, 22 of whom took part in the testimony meeting following.

At the Songsters' tea, which was served immediately after the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. rooms in the basement of the Christian church, about 40 people were present. These represented 11 different states and four foreign countries. Mrs. A. H. Whitte had charge of the tables.

SMALL BOY HURT BY CARRIAGE HORSE

George Lamborn, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lamborn, residing at ... North Nevada avenue, was run over ... afternoon about 1:30 o'clock, by a ... and carriage driven by Mrs. R. B. Grinnell of Wood avenue. The accident took place at the corner of South Tejon and Las Animas streets.

Young George was following his parents who had called to him to look out for the car which was coming down the street, and the little fellow failed to notice the carriage coming around the corner. Mrs. Grinnell did not see the boy until the horse struck him. He was picked up somewhat bruised but stoutly maintained that he felt all right. Tender hands bore him to his home, where he was reported to be resting easily last night.

NEW ... ING ... COMPLETED

Elks Club House Subscriptions Now Aggregate $50,000 and Work on the Erection of the Building Will be Pushed.

The fund for the erection of the new Elks club is now complete. The money has been subscribed, mostly by the members of the lodge and the erection of the building will be pushed along as fast as possible.

Messrs. W. W. Wood and Wm. Fitts, who were in charge of the active work of raising the subscription to $50,000, on Saturday night completed their work and will report this fact to the lodge at the next meeting.

The building is to be erected at the southeast corner of North Cascade avenue and Bijou street and will be one of the handsomest buildings in the entire community. It will have every club convenience and will be a matter of pride to the citizens of Colorado Springs, members of the lodge and otherwise.

The completion of this building fund is but one more factor in a proposition already well demonstrated, that when the Elks undertake to accomplish anything it is bound to be accomplished. Work on the building will be pushed as fast as possible when the rest of the preliminary details have been arranged.

LOOSE TICKETS

WILL NOT BE HONORED FOR ADMISSION TO BASEBALL GAME.

Kansas City Takes Early Train and Game to Be Called at 3:15.

Loose tickets from season books will not be honored. That is an innovation which will be made by the baseball management and which will take effect beginning with this afternoon's game at the baseball park. There has been a great deal of scalping done on the tickets during the present season, as there was last year and it is thought that if the loose tickets are not received it will have a good effect and will not reduce the attendance at the games to any degree. Hereafter, therefore, ticket books must be presented at the gate and the tickets will be torn out by the gatekeeper.

Game called at 3:15 o'clock.

On account of the Kansas City players having to catch an early train, the game today will be called 15 minutes earlier than usual and it is requested that all fans and rooters and everyone interested take notice of the change.

How Lulu Surveyed.

Trees are cultivated more easily if in proper alignment; so after the field was plotted, I set the surveyor running lines for the rows of trees. He had not been working long, when one of the old plantation darkies came, hat in hand, and said: "Cap'n I dun reckon it cost a right smart o' money to do it dat way. Lulu and I can do it a heap sight quicker, and reckon about as well as dat er man wid de machine!" On inquiry, I found Lulu was his old gray mule. I had my doubts, but at his earnest pleading consented that he should make a trial way down on a corner block where it would not show much. Old Henry cut three straight poles from the woods; then some tufts of cotton were tied around the top of the poles to make them white and more easily seen at a distance. The poles were just the length of the distance wanted between the rows, so a standard of measure was always at hand. Placing one pole perfectly upright on the corner of a block, where the first row was to stand, Lulu was headed for the further end of the field, keeping the poles always in sight midway between her long upright ears; so that Henry had a "sight" that made his aim true. I overlooked operations until the third row was finished, and then pushed off to stop the surveyor and turn the whole job over to Lulu! The work was absolutely perfect, and now with more than 250,000 trees in what I am often told is the best arranged orchard in America, I give due credit to the darkey and the mule for the orderly way in which the trees are planted.—G. H. Hale, in The World's Work.
